NEW LOAN MAY BE RESULT OF TARIFF ISSUE

U. S. Won't Change Stand on Trade but Is Ready to Grant Concession

ACTION HELPS FRANCE

Nation Is Convinced of Necessity for Refinancing War Obligations

Washington—Reciprocity has taken on a new meaning in relations between France and the United States. The French government wanted tariff concessions. The American government was unable to make any changes in existing schedules but, yielding to a bargaining spirit, introduced by the French, the Washington administration will remove certain barriers to the flotation of French loans.

The French are endeavoring to refinance one of their loans floated by private bankers in the high interest rate of post-war years. Originally the word sent out that the American government would have no objection to such a step because it represented no new advance of money. Then Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, began to object and the state department grew cautious.

BORAH CHANGES VIEW

There is reason to believe that Senator Borah has been won over to the idea that the refinancing of a loan will not prejudice the position of the United States in case it is desired later on to disapprove of new loans that the French may want. In other words, the granting of permission to float the refinancing loan is a small matter alongside the big principle involved in the tariff dispute. The French are asking for reciprocity in the United States and giving it not in reductions of tariff but in relenting somewhat on its loan policy.

It is considered possible that the present tariff negotiations may have begun simply as a means of getting concessions on the financial issues between France and the United States. The French have not ratified the Mellon-Borah agreement but they are planning to pay the United States nevertheless, the sums called for annually for the next five or ten years.

It is recognized also that France must sooner or later get rid of the loan which the United States government has placed on the floating of new French loans. This restriction is more uncomfortable than the French want point than the restriction of the United States. The Washington government has no objection really to the floating of new loans if it could get some assurance from the French concerning their intention with respect to war debts. It is not necessary for this year as no specified time limit was placed in the document, but as the French financial position improves the American congress may desire a revision upward some day on the ground that the French capacity to pay is better than it was when the agreement was made. Congress has the power to order a revision of the agreement inasmuch as it has never been passed upon finally.

AMOUNT INVOLVED SMALL

The amounts involved in the tariff dispute are so small that officials are convinced the French were feeling out the temper of the United States government with a view to further discrimination if America did not object vigorously. The exchange of notes shows that the United States is not going to allow her exporters to become the victims of trade discrimination and that France cannot afford to sacrifice the good-will she has built up with the American government by introducing certain tariff changes which are contrary to the spirit which has prevailed heretofore.

THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT HAS ADVISED

A conciliatory tone throughout the correspondence believing that world opinion will not support any nationalistic policy that involves unequal or discriminatory treatment for another country. While the American tariff wall is high, the duties are collected equally from all countries which send their exports here. The French tariff is in the nature of a penalty directed at the United States alone and the American government is confident that the French will ultimately drop the matter, especially if they can show their own people that the United States gave certain concessions in the matter of certain loans.

CARDINAL IS CELEBRANT

AT FUNERAL OF BISHOP

Rockford, Ill.—(AP)—With his Eminence George Cardinal Mundelein, as celebrant at the solemn pontifical mass, the last service in the funeral of Right Rev. Peter J. Muldoon, bishop of Rockford, was held at St. James cathedral Wednesday. The tribute paid to the departed prelate was impressive. Practically all of the dignitaries of the Catholic Church in the middle west were present. The sermon was preached by the Most Rev. Austin Dowling, archbishop of St. Paul.

CHIEF'S MEMORY IS POOR IN CANADIAN TRIAL OF INDIANS

Montreal, Que.—(AP)—Repeatedly using the phrase: "I couldn't just exactly remember," Chief Cole of the Lake of Two Mountains Indian reserve baffled all attempts to cross-examine him in the trial of Orrin Kellogg, his wife and Chief Cornelius of the Oneida Indian reservation, charged with obtaining $15,000 under false pretenses from Canadian Indians.

A. R. McMaster, senior crown prosecutor, to draw information from the witness, but the Indian chief contributed little or no material evidence to the case.

Chief Cole only made it known that he expected to receive his "rights of independence and what money was in the claims." He also stated that he would "get his share" from the prosecution of the case in New York state.

Missouri Senator Denounces

"Sinister Conspiracies"

of Rival Party

Sedalia, Mo.—(AP)—"The times are ripe, and rotten ripe for a change" in the national administration, Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, declared Wednesday in an address at the statewide Democratic rally.

The senator, regarded as a possible candidate for the position of vice president, outlined his views on the issue of the 1928 presidential campaign and declared the need today was "an American administration that thinks only in the terms of America and labors for the interests of our people."

Senator Reed made plain that he spoke only for himself and did not arrogate to himself the right to speak for the Democratic party.

ASSAILS REPUBLICANS

He assailed the Harding and Coolidge administrations declaring that on the day President Harding took office "sinister financial conspiracies to intents and purposes took possession of the government and have ever since exercised a dominant control."

RACINE COLLEGE RECTOR

RESIGNS HIS POSITION

Racine — (AP)—The Rev. R. H. M. Baker, D. D., varden of Racine college, school for boys, has tendered his resignation to become effective December 1. His health at the moment is such that he cannot continue in the active management of the college. He has taken some of them with him in his travels in America as well as abroad.

35 STATES COMMEMORATE

DISCOVERY OF AMERICA

New York—(AP)—Columbus day was observed as a legal holiday in 35 states Wednesday with ceremonies commemorating the discovery of America in 1492. The New York Exchange, banks, schools, public buildings and many private businesses in many cities were closed and exercises marking the 435th anniversary of the voyage of Columbus were held.

Eskimo Men Isolated For

Five Months During Year

Washington—(AP)—On the barren island of Nunivak, off the coast of Alaska, where only 170 Eskimo souls spread their habitations over 250 square miles of semi-barren wastes, scientists have discovered a bachelor's paradise, at least for five months of the year.

During this period, so they found, the entire male population of the isolated island, from the "weaned infants to the oldest patriarch," are separated from the women for the singular reason, given by the inhabitants themselves, that it ensures "a good catch of seals" on which they are largely dependent for food, clothing and light.

These facts, together with other facts, have been brought back to Washington and made public Wednesday by Henry B. Collins, Jr., Smithsonian ethnologist and T. Dale Stewart of the National Museum.

The only break in the barriers of Nunivak's "no woman's land" is at meal time, when the women carry food to the Kazhoo, a semi-subterranean ceremonial lodge, where the men have during their traditional exile.

A feast at which the women of all seals caught during the year are thrown back into the sea to propitiate the seal tribe, concludes the male isolation. The scientists say this illustrates the high regard the Eskimos have for their watery prey.

$4,000,000 Fire Damage In Jersey Resort City

Ocean City, N. J.—(AP)—Swept by fire, the heart of this South Jersey seaside resort Wednesday was a mass of ruins.

Driven by a brisk ocean breeze, the blaze, which started Tuesday night in the Unger Arcade building at Ninth-st. and the board walk, wiped out approximately fifty buildings, including hotels, cottages, shops and theatres before it was brought under control after four hours. Mayor Joseph C. Champion estimated the damage at close to $4,000,000. The board walk between Seventh and Tenth-sts. was almost completely destroyed.

Nearly all the buildings were of frame construction and were quickly consumed. An explosion of gasoline in a boardwalk garage was held responsible for the spread of the flames to the cottage and hotel section on Wesley, Atlantic and Ocean-aves. Many families, rendered homeless by the fire, watched over the meagre household goods they salvaged throughout the night. Others spent the night in cottages vacated for the winter, or at hotels.

LAST BODY IS

TAKEN OUT OF

MILL DEBRIS

Begin Preparations for Re-

summing Operations as Man-

ders' Body Is Found

With removal of the body of J. Manders, DePere, from the wreckage of the collapsed portion of the Kimberly-Clark Paper Co. mill, at Kimberly, rescue work was completed and removal of debris from the wrecked beater room was temporarily halted. Manders' body was found at 7:15 Tuesday night near the bottom of the debris, about ten feet from the west wall of the ruined section. His body was partly immersed in water. For several days after the collapse but the pit was nearly dry when the body was removed. It had been buried in the moist pulp since about 10 o'clock last Friday morning.

After the body was found the rescue squads were taken out of the pits and the men sent to their homes to prepare for the work of resuming operations in the mill.

With the finding of Manders' body the number of dead in the disaster was increased to nine. The dead are: Otto Krueger, Arthur Brockman, Norbert Goffard, J. Despins, Herman Brangiers, J. Manders, Peter Van Langveldt, Frank W. Johnson, John Fiers.

Eighteen men were more or less severely injured in the wreck but all are rapidly recovering. Some have been discharged from St. Elizabeth hospital.

STATE NURSES CHOOSE

KENOSHA FOR NEXT MEET

Milwaukee—(AP)—Miss Grace Crafts, Madison, was elected president of the Wisconsin State Nurses association, meeting Tuesday. Miss Cornelia Van Kooy, Milwaukee, retiring president, was elected second vice president. Mrs. C. D. Partridge, Cadash, was re-elected secretary. Other officers are Miss Helen O'Neil, Milwaukee, treasurer; Miss Clara Lewis, Eau Claire, first vice president, Miss VanK. C. was chosen to represent the Wisconsin nurses at the biennial convention of the national organization at Louisville, Ky., next June. Kenosha was chosen as the next meeting place.

NORTHERN LIGHTS HIT

TELEGRAPHS OF NATION

New York—(AP)—Aurora Borealis, or "northern lights," went on a rampage Wednesday and crippled thousands of miles of telegraph wires in the United States and Canada. This natural phenomenon, the cause of telegraph companies, heavily charges wires with excess electricity, making them inoperative. Wednesday the vast leased wire system of the Associated Press was affected. Commercial wires also were hit.

GROCER THWARTS TWO

BANDITS IN STORE

Antigo—(AP)—A. C. Maeritz, proprietor of an outlying grocery, was struck on the head with the butt of a revolver by one of two youthful bandits as he stooped to take cookies out of a box he managed to get behind the counter and saw one of the pair taking money from the cash register drawer. He slammed the drawer shut cutting the thief's hand. Nothing was taken. The would-be robbers fled.

Labor Demands Beer At

Los Angeles Convention

Los Angeles — (AP)—The American Federation of Labor's thirteenth annual convention for "wholesome beer" and its demand that courts be deprived of some of their power to use the injunction against unions remained the liveliest issues before its annual convention here Wednesday.

A resolution favoring modification of the Volstead act to permit "the sale and manufacture of wholesome beer" defined as containing 2.5 per cent alcohol, brought a thunder of "ayes" from delegates Tuesday. There was a scattering of "nays," but the affirmative was overwhelming. Prolonged applause followed the voting.

News of the signing by Federal Judge P. T. Schoonmaker in Pittsburg of the decree making effective the sweeping court injunction against the United Mine Workers, brought a barrage of protest from labor leaders.

The news of the signing of the decree came almost at the moment when the convention was passing a resolution calling for amendment or modification of the Sherman Anti-Trust law in order that it might not interfere with organized labor.

California's attempt to put the American Federation of Labor on record as favoring the exclusion of Mexican immigrants for application of the quota law to Mexico, failed at federation convention Wednesday.

A resolution favoring legislation to protect American workers from competition by Canadian workers, submitted by hundreds in Detroit, Mich., and Niagara Falls, N. Y., was defeated by the federation delegates, who sent it to the executive council after considerable argument.

NORRIS GROUP ORGANIZES FOR UNITED ACTION

Progressive Senators Disclaim Third Party Threat in Next Election

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Western Republican senators, belonging to the so-called Progressive group have announced their intention to unite "for solidarity of action" in consideration of presidential candidates and legislative problems of the next congress.

Disclaiming any threat of forming a third party, the western senators, with Senator Borah of Idaho as their spokesman, declared in a statement that their purpose of banding together was based on the theory that "the Republican party is a national party and not an eastern party."

While Senator Norris of Nebraska, a Progressive leader, has not indicated his desire to enter the presidential preference primaries in western agricultural states, the western senatorial group expressed unanimity to support him in any state in which he will consent to have his name before the voters. Other members of the group included Senators Frazier and Nye of North Dakota, and Brookhart of Iowa.

NO ACTION TAKEN

The purpose of the groups organization was announced after a conference of the senators when it was stated that, in connection with a presidential choice, no action had been taken and none would be effected until other western senators arrived in Washington.

Declaring that if they made their wishes known "in a proper way and with sufficient force," the westerners' statement continued, "they will be respected and considered by the party." When eastern members of congress confer upon members of their party they are regarded as "regular and sometimes active and patriotic," it added, but western senators and representatives in a similar conference, seem to be regarded as "irregular, insurgent and radical."

"This view is based on the assumption among some easterners, the announcement said, that 'Republican policies can only originate within certain territory and Republican policies can emanate only from certain quarters. The western senators "do not desire to intrude unnecessarily upon this idea," it added, but "feel that a reasonable degree of solidarity with reference to Western interests and problems will help for a better understanding."

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK AT

CARNEGIE CELEBRATION

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—President Coolidge will leave Washington Wednesday night for the first time since returning from the Black Hills of South Dakota, to journey to Pittsburgh where he will speak Thursday at the founder's days celebration of Carnegie Institute. The entire day will be given over by the president to his visit in the Pennsylvania city.

Secretary Mellon will accompany Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge to Pittsburgh at the residence there of the secretary of the labor department, and Mrs. Davis, who also live at Pittsburgh, will join the president at the exercises and return with him to Washington.

OUTLINE PROGRESSIVE

PROGRAM AT INSTITUTE

Green Bay—(AP)—A progressive program for the coming year and increased efficiency in the banking business was the keynote sounded when the Wisconsin chapter of the American Institute of Banking opened its tenth annual convention here Wednesday morning. Every chapter in the state was represented. The membership of the organization, which is maintained for the schooling of bank employees who desire further education in the various phases of the banking service, totals approximately 1,000. About 150 delegates were present when the first of the two day sessions opened at 9:30 Wednesday morning.

COOLIDGE THINKS LARGE TAX CUT AT THIS TIME UNWISE

President Challenges Commerce Chambers Suggestion for $400,000,000 Slash

Washington, D. C.—President Coolidge is prepared to oppose as large a tax reduction as advocated by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

An aggregate cut of from $350,000,000 to $400,000,000, as suggested by this business organization, would be most unwise and would be certain to cause a deficit, in the President's opinion. Arguments for so large a slashing of revenues are definitely challenged by the President, whose views were made known at the White House.

How much of a reduction the President will favor was not disclosed. Thus far he has not been advised by the treasury and budget bureau as to the probable margin between revenues and expenditures.

WAR LEVIES NOT YET PAID

It is certain, however, that the administration will desire to hold the aggregate of tax reduction below $300,000,000, and it is possible that its maximum will not greatly exceed $200,000,000.

The insistence of the chamber of commerce upon a reduction of taxes on the ground that wartime levies should be removed is not entirely justified, the President thinks. With the war debt totaling about $15,000,000,000 the President believes it is obvious that the task of paying for the war is by no means over, and that what taxes should remain on the statute books for a long time to come.

POINTS TO FAULTY ARGUMENTS

The statement in the chamber of commerce report that surpluses have invariably exceeded advance estimates and that it was therefore safe to reduce taxes considerably more than the amount of the estimated surplus is one point to which the President takes sharp exception.

The increase in the surplus over the estimates have been due, according to the President, to various factors which cannot be depended upon in the future to produce the same result. For example, receipts from back taxes have been an important factor. These receipts are falling off steadily.

The payment of railroad obligations has tended to swell the surplus. Revenues also have exceeded estimates because of business conditions.

But a slackening of activity might easily reduce receipts considerably.

PROBABLE NEW EXPENDITURES

Increased expenditures which are in prospect in several directions make it necessary, according to the President, to exercise the greatest prudence in checking up the running expenses of the government. Otherwise it might not be possible to reduce taxes at all.

A greater outlay for national defense is in sight. This will include some increases for naval construction and some new items for aviation under the five year program adopted by congress last year. Expenditures for flood control form another item which the President's opinion must be taken into account in figuring the amount of taxes which may be reduced.

GIVES RECENT ILLUSTRATIONS

Increases in expenditures already made during the Coolidge administration have included payments under the soldiers' bonus law and increased pensions for veterans of other wars, and the President holds that it was only by careful economies that the aggregate of expenditures has been held down.

The President, it was reiterated, desires as much tax reduction as an economical administration can provide. This tax reduction, as he has heretofore emphasized, should go hand in hand with debt retirement. Tax reduction, he thinks, can be brought about only by economy, and his advice to the chamber of commerce is that it bend its energies first of all toward guarding against unwise governmental expenditures.

BUILDING PERMITS

Permission has been granted the Miller Posting Service, Inc., by John S. Welland, city building inspector, to erect four steel construction signs at 131-133-135 E. College-ave. The signs are to be constructed under the supervision of the building inspector.

Other building permits were granted: Albert Nansen, 519 E. Bonanza; one car garage; F. A. Greeley, 227 S. Lowell; temporary one-car garage; and Fred E. Zimmerman, 325 E. Lincoln-st. one car garage.

COP CONFESSES HE IS CROOK BUT KEEPS JOB

Chicago—Patrolman William Jannisch, who confessed that he helps shake down a beer flat owner for $300 "protection money," is going to keep his job on the police force. He will also keep the $50 he said he took as his share of the haul.

Because Jannisch confessed, involving five other policemen, the civil service commission decided yesterday to treat him with leniency. He was fined $20 and sent to the other policemen "were discharged."

"But who gets the $50?" Thomas J. Houston, president of the commission, was asked.

"He'll keep it. I curse," Mr. Houston replied. "That was ill-gotten money taken from a man in an illegal business. The whole deal was crooked, so we decided to let it drop where it is."

The six policemen, according to Jannisch's story at the trial, raided the flat of Anton Lachman, 4243 Kinross Street, found 40 bottles of beer, and extorted the $300, which they split after returning to the Fillmore station. The flat proprietor complained a week later when another squad tried to collect from him, and the trial followed. Lachman testified to the commission that he is still willing beer he usual.

SOUTHWEST'S GLORY TOLD TO ROTARIANS

Prof. MacHarg Tells Club About Ancient Primitive Civilizations

Ancient civilizations of the southwest were explained to members of the Appleton Rotary club by Prof. John B. MacHarg of the faculty of Lawrence college, at the noon luncheon of the club Tuesday.

Prof. MacHarg has made several visits to the southwest and has taken thousands of photographs, some of which were shown in stereoscopic illustrations at the close of the lecture.

The often overlooked volcanic nature of the Southwest was first described by Prof. MacHarg. The visitor to New Mexico and Arizona may see hundreds of extinct volcanoes and more terribly impressive outpourings of lava than anywhere else on the globe. The wild canyons and grotesque mesas have helped in building the superstitions that have marked successive cultures.

Magnificent forests and unusual opportunities for hunting and fishing are among the surprises of the country and nowhere else in the United States are more glorious displays of wild flowers to be seen, all of which have significance in the ancient civilizations, he said.

The primitive civilizations of the Southwest came roughly from 2000 B. C. to 1000 A. D., were discussed. Community houses of impressive dimensions with hundreds of rooms were characteristic of this period and extensive dwellings were erected along favorably exposed cliffs. Sometimes, as in the Mesa Verde National park, villages were built in cave-like clefts of the canyon walls. The pottery and jewelry denote a high degree of culture, he explained.

"The Spaniards who came early in the sixteenth century found much of the early civilization shattered and in ruins," he said, "but in many places the Pueblo Indians continued the customs of their ancestors and utilized their buildings. Magnificent churches and monastic establishments were erected by the Franciscan missionaries and their followers, of which impressive ruins remain. The Spanish civilization antedates that of the New England colonies by two or three generations and has a much more important influence upon our civilization today than is often recognized."

"The Indians of the Southwest are little known and present problems of practical and ethnological interest. The tribes of Indians differ as much as do the various divisions of the white race. Many of the Pueblo Indians are possessed of education and culture in some respects superior to our own. They should not be confused with their enemies, the nomadic tribes, who have given popular and wide spread notions as to the Indian race as a whole."

MODERN INDUSTRIALISM

IS PLAYED BY SPEAKER

Milwaukee—(P)—Modern industrialism, while it has given us billions in wealth, has turned our simple, honest country-folk into the "jazz hounds" of the modern city, Dr. Frank Bohn, New York writer, declared Wednesday night before the annual convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs.

"Our jazz society, is like a barrel full of insects with the lid screwed down. The rebuilding of human society as a whole, out in the country, constitutes the solution to the problem created by the jazz age," Dr. Bohn said.

"The first step toward education of the city child, or the city adult," he said, "is quietness. We must recultivate the soul. Lasting human contacts are needed, for otherwise we become barbarians."

"The individual character and the individual mind must be given a chance to thrive in the silence of the wood and fields."

Causes of the present state of affairs, according to Dr. Bohn, may be traced to the negative side of wars. The negative side of the Revolution War was that it left profound efforts on our cultural life. The Civil war forced the slaves, but wrecked the only soundly cultivated class in America, he declared.

TAKE OUT SHARP CURVE

ON RIVER ROAD TO NEENAH

SCHOOL SPONSORS TWO U. W. LECTURES

Parents and Teachers of Roosevelt School Hold First Meeting of Year

Two University of Wisconsin Extension lectures will be given in Roosevelt school auditorium during the year. It was announced at the first meeting of the parents and teachers of Roosevelt Junior High school Monday evening.

Glenn Morris will present a scientific lecture on Nov. 22. Mr. Morris will bring a truck filled with apparatus of all kinds for his demonstrations. The second number will be a talk on character study by S. Platt Jones on Dec. 6.

A. C. Osterhouse, principal of Roosevelt school, spoke on the underlying philosophy of the junior high school work, including exploration, educational guidance, and those things which are important that parents know about the activities of the school.

The newly-elected president, Charles H. Kuessemann, presided. It was decided that two members be appointed to Appleton Civic council.

The following working committees were appointed:

Program, Mrs. Charles Reineck, Mrs. E. H. Jennings, A. H. Miller; publicity, Mrs. E. Wright, Mrs. H. Davis, Mrs. F. Moyle; health, Mrs. H. Younger, Dr. E. Brooks, H. A. Frampton; citizenship, Claude Cannon, Mrs. A. E. Wendel, Frank Catlin; accident prevention, John Goodrich, W. Bonini, and E. N. Blanger.

Miss Agne Vanneman, recreation director of Appleton Women's club, took charge of the stunts after the regular business meeting. Parents went to the classrooms of the teachers to become better acquainted.

REMUS USES "ADS"

TO FIND HIS MONEY

Slayer Hints Dead Wife Had His Wealth While He Was in Federal Prison

Cincinnati, O.—A nationwide search for the $1,800,000 which George Remus, the fallen booze baron, claims his wife, Mrs. Imogene Remus, took from him while he was in the Atlanta prison, has started.

George J. Connors, business agent for Remus, placed an advertisement in the Cincinnati newspapers directed to banks, depositaries, safety deposit vaults, security and investment brokers, in which he asked for information on Mrs. Remus' financial affairs.

The advertisement was marked for publication also in Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus, Dayton and Middletown, O.; St. Louis, Chicago, Evanston, Indianapolis, Detroit, Lansing, Milwaukee, Los Angeles, Miami Beach, Atlanta, Buffalo, New York, St. Louis, Lexington, Louisville and Winnipeg, Windsor and Walkerville, Canada.

TEXT OF ADVERTISEMENT
The advertisement reads:

"Any one of the above institutions throughout the United States and Canada, particularly Ontario, Winnipeg and Manitoba provinces, having any knowledge of Augusta Imogene Remus or under the assumed names of Augusta Imogene Holmes, Augusta Imogene Brown, Augusta Imogene Grey, Augusta Imogene Campbell, Ruth Holmes and Ruth Remus, renting safety deposit boxes, having bank accounts, investment securities or collateral pledged, please notify George Remus, Hamilton county jail, Cincinnati, Ohio."

Connors, on his return from Lansing today, asserted that he had found evidence which indicated that Mrs. Remus had a safety deposit box in a Lansing bank and that she had visited it with Franklin L. Dodge, Jr.

FORMAL INQUESTS HELD
Remus was held responsible for the murder of his wife by Coroner Fred C. Swing following an inquest which showed, according to the coroner, "there is no question but that this murder was premeditated."

Four witnesses were called in the inquest, which was held as a mere formality to establish the cause of Mrs. Remus' death last Thursday at her husband's hands.

The trial of Remus on the murder indictment which the new Hamilton county grand jury will return against Remus was set for the first week in November by Judge Chester R. Shook in Criminal court today when he delivered his charge to the jury. The jury began an investigation of the Remus case this afternoon immediately after it was organized. Carl E. Basler, assistant prosecutor, was assigned by Charles P. Taft, prosecuting attorney, to present the evidence.

45 MILES AN HOUR TOO FAST FOR CITY STREETS

H. J. Leighton, 1325 Recent-st. Madison, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Bure in municipal court Wednesday morning, when he pleaded guilty of speeding. Leighton was arrested by Fred Arnold, motorcycle officer, for traveling 45 miles an hour on W. Wisconsin-ave at 4:30 Thursday afternoon.

SCOUT EXECUTIVE BOARD MEETS TO DISCUSS WORK

Members of the executive board of the valley boy scout council will meet Thursday evening to discuss plans for the fall scout program. Milo G. Clark, newly appointed executive of the valley council, will attend the meeting and offer suggestions for the work which must be taken care of.

LETTER GOLF

WHY BE BALD?

Don't go around with a shiny pate when you can go from BALD to HAIR in four strokes. Par is shown on page 11.

B	A	L	D
H	A	I	R

THE RULES

1.—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2.—You can change only one letter at a time.

3.—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4.—The order of letters cannot be changed.

BANKERS' INSTITUTE

MEET AT GREEN BAY

Feature of Meeting Is Debate on City Manager Form of Government

Green Bay—(P)—Approximately 200 delegates, representing about 1,000 members, gathered at Green Bay Wednesday for the tenth annual convention of the Wisconsin chapter of the American Institute of Banking at which they plan to discuss the various phases of the banking business and report on the past year's activities.

The feature of the meeting probably will be the debate on the city manager plan of city government. A team composed of Janesville members will uphold the affirmative side of the question. "Resolved, that every city with a population greater than 50,000 should adopt a city manager type of government." Milwaukee is to furnish a team to argue the negative side.

It was announced by Theils Noel, president of the local chapter, that each chapter will report on its activities during the past year. This probably will be held following the election of officers Thursday morning.

Mr. Noel will welcome the delegates, after which the annual address of John L. Stauber, Marshfield, president of the state organization, will be given. W. A. Koch, Wausau, will report on the progress the institute has made in the past year and William H. A. Johnson, Chicago, assistant secretary of the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank of that city, will talk on the American Institute of Banking.

The principal address of the meeting will be that of Dr. W. A. Gansfield, president of Carroll college. Officers are to be elected at the Thursday morning session, which will be followed by a discussion of the state banking department by Calvin Schwenker, commissioner of banking. Discussion and reports of the committees will close the convention at noon. The afternoon will be devoted to entertainment and sight-seeing trips.

$750 REWARD OFFERED FOR ESCAPED CONVICT

A reward of $750 is offered for the capture of William Lynch, a convict who escaped from the Eastern State penitentiary at Pennsylvania on Sept. 4. He was sentenced on May 29, 1925 to from 10 to 20 years for robbery. He is 29 years old, weighs 202 pounds and is medium height. He has medium dark complexion with hazel eyes and black hair. He is an electrician's helper by trade, according to information received by Sheriff Otto Zuehlke.

Sheriff Zuehlke also is asked to watch for William Bishe, who also escaped from the penitentiary at Pennsylvania. He was sentenced Sept. 12, 1912, to a term of life for first degree murder. Bishe is five feet four and one half inches tall and weighs 130 pounds. He is of medium build, with fair complexion, blue eyes and blonde hair. He has a red birthmark on his right temple.

MANY COUNTY MEN TO ATTEND FARM MEETING

Members of the county agriculture committee, E. A. Armbruster, county agricultural agent, George Schaefer of Greenville, representing the County Holstein Breeders' association and the South Greenlee Grange and a group of county farmers are expected to attend the Wisconsin Farm congress at Madison, Thursday and Friday. The congress has been called by Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman and the state agricultural department. Various noted speakers will give addresses and there will be open forum discussions on farm subjects.

DON'T PARK CARS IN ALLEYS, VAUGHN WARNS

A warning was issued to motorists Wednesday morning by Captain J. J. Vaughn, acting chief of police, against parking automobiles in alleys. Acting Chief Vaughn points out that a city ordinance prohibits parking in alleys except for loading, unloading purposes and he said police officers have been instructed to arrest all violators. Parking in the alleys is an obstruction to the fire department in case of a fire. Parking is defined by the city ordinance as leaving a car stand for more than five minutes, whether it is attended or unattended.

DRIVER RACES WITH TRAIN AND LOSES BUT IS ONLY SLIGHTLY HURT

Walter Gracylmy, 22, 664 Appleton, Milwaukee, who boarded a Chicago and Northwestern train to the W. College-ave crossing at 6:30 Tuesday evening and failed. A few minor bruises and cuts was the extent of his penalty for failure to stop.

Gracylmy, driving a small coupe north on S. Cherry-st, approached the crossing when the signals were in action. It is said by witnesses. The red lights were on and the bells were ringing, but Gracylmy disregarded these warnings and raced with train No. 205 northbound. It is reported. The train struck the machine and carried it for about 100 feet before the engine could stop. The car was carried upright on the pilot, but it was totally demolished. Gracylmy was able to walk when taken from the wreckage. He was taken to the station by the train crew and then was taken to his home.

BEWAILS TAMENESS OF PARTY MEETINGS

Speaker Says Presidential Conventions Supply but Little Drama

Milwaukee—(P)—With all their "noise and hokum" national presidential conventions still supply the only drama left in politics, Mrs. M. M. Youmans, Waukesha, said Wednesday at the citizenship conference, of which she is chairman, held in connection with the convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs.

One of the principal reasons citizens have lost interest in politics, she said, is because it has become "dull and tame."

"Read the stories of the old days, their wideawake clubs, torchlight processions and their exciting conventions and see why eight percent of the electorate voted then and half that percentage now," Mrs. Youmans declared.

The hope that national conventions would not be replaced by presidential primaries was expressed by Mrs. Youmans. She also urged club women of the state to learn the machinery of presidential nomination and election.

"Study political parties and their functions in our government," she said, "but don't get the impression that all parties are alike. There are fundamental differences in platforms."

"Probably both the Republican and Democratic parties will hedge on the liquor question at the coming conventions, since both have strong wet and dry factions. I used to think that women would vote together on moral questions and perhaps they would if they could agree on what are moral questions and on which side the morality lies."

Mrs. Youmans cited the similar goals to which the various departments of the federation were working but declared the progress was not as rapid as desired.

ADVANCE IS SLOW

"The committee on civics works for good citizenship, the Americanization committee for the same end and so also with Indian work, law observance and citizenship training. We are working for the same end but none of us are advancing as rapidly as we desire."

"The public, however, seems not greatly interested. Speed is its characteristic. Our age is given to pleasure, to looseness of manners and morals. Our age wallows in lawlessness. Every speaker on morals points out that our best citizens join hands with our worst in a deliberate attempt to break the law. Prize fights have become respectable with the finest ladies and gentlemen in our land in attendance. What is the world coming to? We don't know but we are sure that other peoples in times gone by have experienced the same anxiety, and yet the world has continued in its orbit. One generation has followed another and on the whole civilization, seems to have advanced."

"Loyalty and patriotism that we need. It is up to everyone who believes in this nation and its ideals to do what we can to keep it sound, steady and fit, to do for those who come after us what it has done for us."

$200 REWARD FOR MAN WHO ROBBED BREAD FIRM

A reward of $200 is offered for the capture of Lawrence Lillierup alias Thomas Lloyd, who is wanted for stealing $3,800 in funds from the Canada Bread Co., Toronto, Canada, on Aug. 27, 1927. Lillierup is 21 years of age, five feet 10 or 11 inches tall and weighs 170 pounds. He is of stocky build, with fair complexion and close cropped reddish hair. He dresses very fashionably. The Pinkerton Detective agency is seeking the man, according to the notice received at the Appleton police department Wednesday morning.

SELECT APPLETON FOR SAENGERFEST

Appleton Members Will Select Date for 1927 Valley Singing Festival

The 1928 saengerfest of the Fox River Valley Saengerbund will be held next June in Pierce park here, according to a decision reached at the annual meeting of the organization at Neenah. The exact date will be selected by Appleton members of the group.

Alphon Zarbock, Fond du Lac, for the past eight years treasurer of the saengerbund, was elected president for the ensuing year. Other officers are Rev. Otto Hoyer, Winneconne, vice president, Edgar Erdman, Neenah, secretary, H. A. Michler, Fond du Lac, treasurer. Prof. S. J. Bergmann of Fond du Lac was elected conductor of the chorus.

The annual saengerfest was not held during this year because of the removal from Oshkosh, at which place it was scheduled, of Prof. Stetter, who had been director of the combined choirs. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $220 in the treasury and indicated that the organization was well equipped to continue the annual saengerfest.

WIDENING OF STREET DELAYED UNTIL SPRING

Work on the widening of the intersection of Prospect-st and Carver-ave is unlikely to be started this fall, according to L. M. Schindler, city engineer. The property has to be deeded to the city before work can be started, and Mr. Schindler has been too busy to survey the property to determine lines of the property to be deeded over. It is believed that by the time all the preliminary work is completed, frost will have set in, making it impossible to lay the concrete economically.

George A. Brewster, Minneapolis, Minn., visited over the weekend at the home of W. S. Kreiss. He returned home Monday night.

An Exhibit of Handwork Thursday Evening at the Appleton Woman's Club

THURSDAY evening there will be an event of unusual interest to women who like to keep informed about what is new and smart in handwork.

Mrs. Stutz of the Art Department at Pettibone's will present an attractive display of finished models, pieces that have been started and those on which no work has been done, giving an excellent idea of the way the work proceeds and the appearance of the piece when it is finished.

There will be hooked rugs, quilted pillows, baby afghans, new purses showing cross stitch on Penelope canvas, Venetian Maid monograms for linens, initial embroidery forms, needlepoints, organdy pillows and bedspreads. Mrs. Stutz will be glad to advise anyone on these types of handwork.

The handwork displayed at the Exhibit is featured for autumn at Pettibone's. The Art Department will be glad to show you anything in which you are interested.

SEVEN INDICTED IN FOREST-GO CLEAN-UP TO FACE TRIAL HERE

Court Grants Separate Trial to One of Seven Men Sent Here from North

Circuit Judge Edgar V. Werner ordered a separate trial for A. J. Whitcomb, one of the men indicted by a grand jury in the recent investigation into election frauds and irregular conduct of the county board in Forest-go, at a hearing here on Tuesday. Whitcomb was represented by his attorney, Irving Fish of Milwaukee. The date for the trial was set for Oct. 20, at Milwaukee if the special prosecuting attorney, Roland Steinle of Milwaukee, is ready, on that date. Mr. Steinle said in court Tuesday that it was likely the case against Mr. Whitcomb would be nolle.

Cases against seven men were referred to the tenth circuit by the late Judge Quinlan. The cases involve the following men: A. E. Karlberg, A. E. Germer, J. L. Hallie, M. D. Keith, Allan V. Classon, Walter F. Kuzenski and A. J. Whitcomb. The date for trying the other cases has not been set.

MACKVILLE PRIEST AT CONFERENCE

Represents Green Bay Diocese at Meeting of Society for Propagation of Faith

The Rev. George A. Schemmer, pastor of St. Edward church at Mackville, is the official representative of the Green Bay diocese at the annual meeting of directors of the society for the Propagation of the Faith throughout the United States which opened Tuesday and will continue through Wednesday and Thursday at Chicago. The sessions are being held at Hotel Stevens. Father Schemmer is director of the society in the Green Bay diocese.

The conference was opened by Archbishop George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago. Msgr. William Quinn, New York, national director of the society for the Propagation of the Faith, will preside at general sessions. Archbishop Francis Marchetti-Selvagiani of Rome, president of the International Supreme Council of the society will be one of the distinguished guests at the meeting. The Rev. T. Vander Schuren, who was a missionary in India for more than 41 years, will discuss a paper on "The Missionary in Foreign Fields."

A solemn high mass for the missions will be celebrated Thursday morning at St. Mary of the Lake seminary. The Rt. Rev. Bishop Edward F. Hoban will be celebrant. Archbishop Marchetti will deliver the sermon.

Two hundred thirty-two parishes in the Green Bay diocese contributed $37,214.48 during the first year of the organization of the society in the diocese. Among the parishes which contributed to the fund are St. Mary church at Appleton, $1,623; St. John at Little Chute, $1,428.54; St. Luke church at Two Rivers, $1,232.04 and St. Mary church at Menasha, $1,213.

HIGH WATER HINDERS CONSTRUCTION OF DAM

High water and the condition of the river following the closing of dams to keep rescue work at Kimberly has retarded work on the new dam being constructed across the Fox river near the Fox River Paper Co. mill. A steam dredge has been on the job for the last two days and is removing stone from the path of the dam so that workmen may get down to bed rock and prepare the foundation for the structure.

Work of constructing a runway from the St. Paul railroad tracks to the site of the new dam is practically complete. The runway will permit unloading of sand and gravel close to the river and will also prevent traffic congestion over S. Oneida-st bridges.

"First Bank In State" Was Situated In Iowa

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin's first bank was in Iowa. It was chartered at Dubuque by the first territorial legislature of Wisconsin, by an act approved Nov. 30, 1836, when that city was a part of Wisconsin. The infant financial institution was called Miners Bank of Dubuque.

On the same date, Nov. 30, 1836, an act was approved chartering the Bank of Milwaukee. The records of the legislature list the Dubuque charter approved first, so the honor of being the "first bank in the state" must go outside the state's boundaries. The charter of The Bank of Mineral Point was approved two days later, on Dec. 2, 1836.

This data and other interesting information are contained in a volume of the Acts of the First Legislative Assembly of the territory of Wisconsin, which was the first published in Belmont, W. T. (Wisconsin territory) and re-published by order of the legislature in 1867.

The boundaries of the territory were established by an act of the federal congress signed April 20, 1836 by Andrew Jackson as president. Martin Van Buren, president of the Senate and James K. Polk, speaker of the House of Representatives.

TERRITORY COUNCIL
Under authority of this act of the federal congress, Henry Dodge, governor of the territory, called upon the people of the seven counties in his territory to elect members of a house of representatives and a council and a territory delegate to the U. S. Congress.

TWO APPLETON MEN FINED FOR HUNTING

Both Plead Guilty of Shooting Ducks on Open Water of Little Lake

A. W. Becher and Edward Cavanaugh of Appleton, were fined $50 and costs, amounting to $54, Monday afternoon when they were arraigned before Justice Christ Jensen in Neenah on the charge of shooting ducks on the open waters of Little Lake des Morts, southwest of Appleton, Sunday morning. Joseph Steffen and William Merkley of Menasha also were fined the same amount Monday afternoon and George Chedek and Cyrus and Leonard Koslowski, Menasha, were released upon payment of costs of $4.

Monday morning Felix Korek, Philip Black, Anton Dubynski, Lawrence Lignowski and Frank Rhode of Menasha, and Paul Mason of Neenah, parted with $50 and costs for violating the open water law at the same lake. Edward and Julian Weissgerber of Menasha were held for arraignment in municipal court, Oshkosh, with charges to be preferred later. They were apprehended on the road. All of the men were arrested by Warden Boomer, Chase, Dunham and Jeske at the lake Sunday morning.

The legislature provided for the establishment of a university at Belmont, in Iowa-co, for the purpose of "educating youth, the name thereof shall be 'The Wisconsin University.'" The trustees of the university were to spend their funds in the manner they thought most "conducive to the promotion of literature and the advancement of useful knowledge" within the territory. There were to be no religious tests for "president, professor, instructor or pupil—provided he shall demean himself in a proper manner, and conform to such rules as may be established."

SUGGESTS TEMPORARY WATER LINE TO LINKS

Suggestion has been made by Fred Morris, secretary of the water commission, that one inch pipe be connected with hydrants on E. Fremont-st and S. Lave-st to provide water for use in work on the South park municipal golf links this fall. Some water will be needed to settle dirt in grading and filling the course this fall and the regular water main will not be installed until next spring.

Workmen still are grubbing out underbrush at the park and after their work is finished, work will be started on building up the greens.

A. A. L. HAS ANOTHER GOOD BUSINESS MONTH

Another $1,000,000 month was recorded by the Aid Association for Lutherans in September, according to reports made at the October meeting of the association trustees on Tuesday. The report showed 551 members and $1,985,750 insurance for the month, a gain of 72 members and $121,750 insurance over September, 1926. The juvenile department was increased by 189 members and $126,200, a report showed.

ORGANIZE CONCERT BAND AT LAWRENCE

E. S. Moore Will Supervise New Organization; 19 at First Practice

Organization of a concert band at Lawrence college has been started. E. C. Moore, instructor of instrumental music supervising at Lawrence Conservatory of Music, will build the band about a nucleus of students taking the instrumental supervisor course. As several courses at the conservatory serve as preliminary training for work in a band, the new organization will include a large number of students who have had extensive musical training. Members in the instrumental supervisor's course will be required to play in the band. Students enrolled in the vocal supervisor's course are required to take two years instruction on a band instrument and hence will be expected to become band members.

Although only 19 attended the first rehearsal held last week, a larger number is expected to be present at the rehearsal in the future. Mr. Moore believes he can develop a band of concert size within a short time.

The Lawrence band will add another self-governed organization to the several groups of this type already on the campus. The organization will have its own officers and make its own rules and regulations. A constitution is being drawn up by a committee headed by Lola Payne, '28.

Although the band is to be developed into a concert band, it also will serve to rouse the "pop" and enthusiasm of the student body at football games, basketball games and all school affairs. Although there are excellent and experienced players in most sections of the band there is opportunity for others to enter. Mr. Moore wants all students who can play an instrument to be present at the next rehearsal. Attempts are being made to obtain Moose hall for practices, because of its size.

Mr. Moore has had a great deal of experience directing bands, having established a high school band in Green Bay that soon developed into one of the best organizations of its class. He also directed bands at Lansing, and in a military school at Lake Forest.

CATLIN NEW CHIEF OF FIRE COMMITTEE

Mark S. Catlin, alderman from the First ward, has succeeded to the chairmanship of the fire and water committee of the common council, vacated by the death of Pliny Earle, former alderman from the second ward.

Other members of the committee are Aldermen W. H. Gmeiner, Jerry Callahan, W. Hassman, and Phillip Vogt.

GOT $3 A DAY

George McWilliams, "who contested the seat of Alexander J. Irwin in the house of representatives," was awarded three dollars a day for 48 days. The record does not say whether Mr. McWilliams worked at "contesting" for those forty-four days, or whether he was seated as a member in the place of Mr. Irwin.

The publishers of four newspapers were paid $15 each for printing the laws passed by the legislature. They were the Belmont Gazette, the Dubuque Visitor, the Milwaukee Advertiser, and the Wisconsin Democrat.

The legislature voted on Dec. 3, 1836 that the seat of government should be established at the town of Madison, "between the third and fourth of the four lakes," and that until such time as the public buildings were constructed, the sessions of the legislature should be held in Burlington in the county of Des Moines.

The La Fontaine Railroad Company was authorized to build a railroad from "La Fontaine on Fox River to Winnebago City, or some other convenient point on Winnebago river." The legislature retained the power to limit the "toll and terms of freight on the aforesaid railroad."

The legislature provided for the establishment of a university at Belmont, in Iowa-co, for the purpose of "educating youth, the name thereof shall be 'The Wisconsin University.'" The trustees of the university were to spend their funds in the manner they thought most "conducive to the promotion of literature and the advancement of useful knowledge" within the territory. There were to be no religious tests for "president, professor, instructor or pupil—provided he shall demean himself in a proper manner, and conform to such rules as may be established."

COMMUNIST POLICY GIVES CHURCH ITS CHANCE IN RUSSIA

Religions Are Allowed, but They Must Compete With Attacks of Atheism

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of 12 articles, written by Jerome Davis, a member of the faculty of the Yale University Divinity School, who has spent the Summer investigating conditions in Russia. Mr. Davis' articles, which will appear daily, tell just what is happening in the social, political and economic phases of Russian life.

BY JEROME DAVIS
Russia is a great laboratory of religious experimentation today. Hundreds of religious sects are competing for the allegiance of the people and all have to go up against the Lenin cult and the worship of Communism as a religion.

A type of religious evangelist and proselyter is coming forward not unlike those developed in the days of Paul when the Apostles had to face the Roman emperor worship.

Never since Christianity was first struggling with the pagan patriotic faith of Rome has it been so challenged as by Bolshevism. Never before in the history of the world has a great government controlling one-sixth of the land surface of the earth proudly proclaimed itself atheistic.

Today Russia is attempting to displace religion by science. It is not only a negative but a positive attack. They would not only banish the gods from the skies but usher in Communism on the earth.

CHURCHES STAY OPEN

The Bolsheviks are too wise to close down the churches. Everywhere they are open. The metropolitan bishop of Leningrad told me that no just criticism could be made against the Bolsheviks for interfering with the worship of God. Indeed, he admitted that the Bolsheviks encouraged the church to do welfare work, sometimes even giving it financial aid. The various Protestant missionaries recorded high praise to much of the Bolshevik policy. Under the Tsar they did not have the right of organization. At present they are enjoying full freedom. National religious conventions are regularly held and converts are being numbered by the thousands.

There are also religious groups such as Dukhobores, the Evangelical Malokams, and the New Apostles who are keeping the faith in God. The Soviet government aided these people to return from exile in Canada, the United States, and South America. A statement of the Russian Department of Justice reads:

ADOPT THEMSELVES

"These sects adapt themselves quite readily to our Soviet laws. In spite of the religious form of their Communistic tendencies they unite as agricultural nuclei into our Soviet structure. The task of the Soviet organs in relation to these Communistic believers is to develop and fortify them with the aid of science and a superior technique. Let them continue in their old habits and modes of Communistic organizations as industrial agricultural groups. With our aid they will serve as practical examples of the possibility and advantage of Communism for the toiling peasants."

CHURCH IS CHANGING

They have passed new laws. The church is completely separated from the state and the school from the church. It is forbidden to teach religious doctrines in any educational institution, public or private. The Greek Orthodox faith, the universal Russian church, has been badly hit. Some say it is dying, others that it is being revolutionized. Everyone knows it is changing.

In the cities where the speculators, the newly rich, and the former educated classes are beginning "to come back," the services are crowded. One Sunday I spent in going from church to church. There were larger audiences than in the days of the Tsar.

In the villages there has been a notable falling off in attendance. The children as a group have deserted the religious services. One priest complained bitterly that his only daughter had joined the Communist Youth Organization. She now openly scoffs at his faith," he said.

QUEER TO BELIEVE

The children themselves seemed to think it queer that an intelligent individual could still believe in God. They said, "If there is a God, show him to us." "Why do we need a God?" "We can raise wheat without him better than with him."

Strict orders have been given that the 56,000 teachers who are non-Communists shall refrain from using religious propaganda in the schools. As a result they sometimes even fear to answer questions honestly. For instance, a deacon teaching in the public schools told me of a student who asked him whether people now believed in God. Said the deacon, "Realizing that a truthful answer would be falsely reported, I played safe. In the choice between my faith and my job, I chose the latter and said 'No.'"

In order to find out the government's attitude toward religion I interviewed Yaroslavsky, who is editor of the Atheist. He has had a long record of revolutionary activity and now stands very close to the powerful Communist leader, Stalin. He told me that the Communists oppose religion on three counts.

"PURE SUPERSTITION"

"In the first place," he said, "all ideas of God are pure superstitious myths without a scintilla of evidence behind them. In the second place, religion has been a kind of political agitator, sitting on the head of every oppressed man with promises of future happiness. For this reason religion is the opium of the people. In the third place, religion is always used as a tool by autocratic power, whether Tsaristic or capitalist. The priesthood and the ministers always support the dominant crowd. The church thus becomes the agitating apparatus of the ruling group, whether it is composed of landlords, money-lenders, slaveholders, merchants, factory owners, speculators, bankers, or others."

"The church in reality is a mist to hide selfish desires. Priests and ministers are 'social conciliators' who postpone the day of social justice, or they are Fascists, supporters of the Ku Klux Klan and the like, who use terror in the name of religion."

The Communist party in Article Thirteen of its program requires of all its members "anti-religious work." Yaroslavsky went on to tell me of the concrete steps the Communists are taking in their anti-religious drive. He was very proud of the fact that nowhere else in the world is this work so widespread.

MAGAZINES ARE EFFECTIVE

Most effective in spreading "the gospel of a Godless world" is the weekly magazine, "Without God," which in 1926 had a circulation of 200,000. Another periodical, "The Atheist in the Factory," circulates largely among the laboring masses. In many of the local magazines there is a "without God" corner which carried on "this good" work.

Said Yaroslavsky, "In April, 1925, we founded our 'Union of Atheists,' a missionary organization which has for its purpose the conversion of the Christians. In 1926 its membership exceeded 114,000. The most effective work is carried on in the villages where we have an 'economical' approach. We contrast co-operatives electrification and raising wheat with the productive results of the church. We ask, 'Is religion useful for the peasant economy?'"

"Anyone can go to church who will. We do not stop the masses from being Christians if that is their desire. We hope they will grow to see the utility of such a faith. We use lectures, informal talks in meetings, theatrical performances, moving pictures, exhibits, posters, educational films, newspapers, excursions, individual work and so forth."

In this great clash between what the Bolsheviks believe is scientific truth versus "blind" belief, they are so confident of the victory as to affirm, "There is no living God, religion is self-delusion; the truth will finally emerge in the fires of Communistic criticism."

Christians will snare this optimism about the eventual triumph of truth, but to them God is truth. It is quite possible that the Bolsheviks in fighting religion have done the Russian church a greater service in a decade than the Tsar's autocracy did in subsidizing it for ten centuries. Under persecution hypocrisy is laid bare and sincere, devoted followers of the Christ are born.

SUSPEND SENTENCE IN MANSLAUGHTER CASE; REFUSES PLEA

Fahrbach Forbidden to Drive
Automobile for Year and Must Pay Costs

George Fahrbach, 631 First-st, Menasha, was found guilty of manslaughter by Judge Edgar V. Werner in circuit court Monday afternoon after he entered a plea of nolle contendere, and sentence was suspended although he was forbidden to drive an automobile for a year. Fahrbach had been charged with manslaughter after Miss Gertrude Becker, 17, town of Greenville, died in St. Elizabeth hospital from injuries received when Fahrbach's machine struck her.

The accident occurred Saturday night, Mar. 5, at the corner of S. Cherry-st and W. Prospect-ave. A coroner's jury found Fahrbach did not use necessary precautions and was negligent in driving his car.

In suspending sentence Judge Werner said, "Fahrbach is not likely to again engage in offensive conduct and public interest does not demand that he should suffer the penalty provided by law."

Fahrbach was placed on probation and must file a personal bond of $1,000 to guarantee his appearance in court in case he violates the court order. Judge Werner also will allow Fahrbach to drive a truck to earn his livelihood. He must pay the court costs in the action, amounting to $100, in payments of $10 each.

MANY APPLICATIONS FOR "HOUSE MOTHER" JOBS

Madison—(AP)—Last winter Dean Scott H. Goodnight, University of Wisconsin advocated that fraternities each have a "house mother." Now he is nearly swamped with applications for such posts.

The applications come from Madison, Wisconsin and from other states. Three fraternities now have house mothers. These women are just what their name implies; they are employed to act as "second mothers" to the young men of the fraternity, advising them in making their quarters more home-like and otherwise injecting the home atmosphere into the rigorous fraternity life.

According to information at the Badger school many western schools now have house mothers in all of their fraternity houses.

Dean Goodnight has on file scores of applications for posts as caters, housekeeper, or building manager.

COLLEGE CLASS IS AMAZED BY DOG MIND

Animal Obeys Difficult Commands of His Master in Interesting Test

New York—A psychology class at Columbia university Monday watched a 4-year-old German shepherd dog display astounding reactions to the words of his master.

Fellow performed practically every command given him by Jacob Herbert, Detroit, who arranged the demonstration with Prof. C. J. Warden of the animal psychology laboratory.

Once in a while Fellow would miss. He had trouble finding the second window in the room and he missed several orders which Herbert called out from behind a screen. But he did well enough even under these circumstances to show he didn't need visual clues.

UNDERSTANDS MANY WORDS
The dog "understands" between 300 and 400 words, Herbert said, and has the intelligence of an 8-year-old boy.

Herbert prefaced nearly every instruction with "listen," and the dog would become attentive. Almost invariably the dog then would obey the order given. He went to tables, chairs, seats and other common objects. He took a silver dollar in his mouth and threw it on a table. He retrieved the dollar and gave it to a woman member of the class.

Fellow's master then asked the dog to protect another woman and not let anyone come near her. The dog did so and even when Herbert himself came near the girl, barked furiously.

REMEMBERS NAMES

The dog remembers names. After being introduced to several members of the class he obeyed orders to pick out one of his new acquaintances when her name was called.

Herbert told the class that he had trained Fellow by talking sensibly to him and trusting that his mind would develop as does that of a human baby. The dog is never whipped or rewarded, getting his only "pay" in the spoken "very good" or "fine" of his master's approval.

THE TEAPOT DOME DECISION
Again the supreme court of the United States has measured up to its great responsibilities by cancelling the lease illegally and corruptly obtained by Harry F. Sinclair of Teapot Dome naval oil reserve in Wyoming. The court finds that he obtained it through fraud in a criminal conspiracy with Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior in the lamented Harding administration. The decision of the court is unanimous. In it Fall is described as a "faithless public officer."

The government has been successful in its suits to have restored all of the naval oil reserves sold to Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny, worth fabulous millions. In addition it will get $5,000,000 of improvements made on the Teapot Dome property. The court hesitates to say that Fall was bribed by Sinclair, confining its opinion to the statement that the transaction was "shot through with fraud and corruption." Of course it was bribery. Mr. Sinclair got the Teapot Dome lease by bribing Fall. Doheny got the Elk Hill reserve lease in California by bribing Fall. The bribe consisted of cash and Liberty bonds. There is not even denial of the facts. It is as clear a case of bribery as was ever proved in any court. But even if there were no bribery, fraud, corruption and criminal conspiracy are felonies.

If persons guilty of similar offenses are ever to be punished, Fall, Doheny and Sinclair should be in the penitentiary. Probably others connected with these proceedings should be in prison also. Not one of them is behind the bars. Doheny has even been acquitted by a lace-handkerchief jury. Fall, Doheny and Sinclair are the worst type of gentleman criminals this country harbors. One used a high position of public trust to sell out the people, and the others used enormous wealth to rob them. Why is it that these men who are guilty of bribery, fraud and criminal conspiracy are not in prison? Socialists and communists will tell us they are protected by the capitalist system, but it is a conclusion entirely without foundation. They are at liberty because sentimental, pleasure-loving, jazz-minded jurors will not convict them. That is the one and the only reason. In the city of Chicago they convict one murderer out of a hundred for exactly the same reasons, and they do not even hang that one.

The Fall-Doheny-Sinclair case in its criminal aspects is nothing but a gigantic travesty upon justice, but the people have only themselves to blame. The courts have been outspoken and fearless, so have the prosecutors and the special counsel employed to assist them. They have done their duty with distinction, as the results obtained in the supreme court testify. But maudlin-minded juries will not cooperate when it comes to the criminal charges. And these juries are not made up of high-brows, men of property and representatives of big business. They are made up of common, every-day men and women. Practically every jury is a cross-section of American life in its social and economic classifications—all but the very top. If anything the preponderance is on the side of those who have the least of this world's goods, who have the most to complain of from such wrong as Fall, Doheny and Sinclair have committed.

WHAT MAKES A CITY?
For communities to be vainglorious is as natural and human as for the individual. Man of both sexes and all ages dearly loves to talk about himself, point out his little excellencies, emphasize the good deeds of self and make for himself a niche in the hall of fame. The community is a colony of men and as such must display the traits of men.
Next to boasting oneself men and women prefer "selling" the home town. Among their own townspeople they discuss the fine points and peculiar advantages of the home in contrast rather than comparison with the neighboring "burgs." Every visitor and stranger in town must hear the whole history and note the progress of the community. The American people are invariably patriotic and loyal to nation, state, county, town and self.

Among community institutions most prized and proudly displayed four are especially outstanding: Good churches, good schools, good parks and good streets. People talk of their fine stores, their ornamental public buildings, their prominent citizens, but first and last they are concerned with their churches, schools, parks and streets.

The town or city seeking a higher population cannot better obtain that end than by building modern streets and parks, providing its children with suitable school buildings and erecting monumental church edifices. Ask the prospective citizen what he would demand for his adopted community and he will say without hesitation, "schools, churches, parks and streets, the best that money can buy." Until it has provided the best in these four necessities of modern life no community has done its full duty to its citizens.

AMATEURS IN SCIENCE
There was a time, a century or two ago, when science was largely the creation of hobby-riders; men who turned their attention to nature and their eyes down microscopes because it amused them to do so. This amateur science disappeared. It is sometimes fancied that it disappeared by necessity, because science came to demand vast laboratories and the long training possible only to professionals. There are salutary signs, however, that this imaginary prohibition against the scientific amateur is vanishing. Industry is encouraging scientific research by its workers by providing laboratory equipment and allowing some freedom of endeavor during working hours. From these workshops of science are coming many of the greatest scientific discoveries and developments of the day.

Museums, choked with material awaiting study, offer another opportunity for research. They have all the essentials except the professional scientists to do the work, so it is suggested amateurs be recruited to assist.

Mere willingness is not, of course, the sole essential of a useful amateur. A wise committee does not permit every willing woman to bake the angel food for the church social. He who would be an amateur admitted to museum collections must first work hard enough to prove his worth as men do work, for example, to deserve admission to golf foursomes or to tables at bridge. But the path is open. The tools and specimens of a beginner are cheap. And in the end, if rider and hobby grow to like each other, there is not only the opportunity of usefulness, but a resource against boredom, even for a dozen lifetimes.

Though the sum of human knowledge grows larger every year, opportunities and rewards for original research were never greater. It should be encouraged more in colleges and universities.

Brave Admiral, sail but one good word: What shall we do when hope is gone?" The words leapt like a leaping sword: "Sail on! Sail on! Sail on! and on!"

Then, pale and worn, he kept his deck, And peered through darkness. Ah, that night Of all dark nights, and then a speck— A light! a light! a light! a light! It grew, a starlit flash unfurled! It grew to be the burst of dawn. He gained the world; he gave that world! It grandest lesson: "On! Sail on!" —Joaquin Miller: From Columbus.

ANTISEPTICS IN THE ORAL CAVITY
Just what the daily cleansing of the mouth should be, every dentist will tell you differently. Dr. Joseph Head says the surfaces between the teeth should be thoroughly swept by dental floss to remove all food and bacterial deposits, and without extra charge he includes pictures of a woman who is so beautiful that she looks beautiful doing it. Next the teeth and gums should be thoroughly brushed, with a short brush having a strong handle to give a good hand grip, and bristles not more than 1/4 inch long. Dr. Head says that one should use a dentifrice or an antiseptic mouth wash, and vigorously swish saliva and mouth wash between the teeth for a period of not less than two minutes. . . . where there is marked gum infection a saturated solution of sodium silico-fluoride or a solution of one part of peroxide and two parts water should be held in the mouth for at least two minutes after the brushing of the teeth. All this should be carried out morning and evening, provided one has nothing else to do (I'd interpolate). Myself, I have so many other things to do, and besides I don't believe ordinary cleanliness or dirtiness has much to do with the conservation of my teeth. Suit yourself about yours.

I do cordially approve of the technically Dr. Head insists on, in regard to the use of antiseptics. I don't know whether it is because this dentist is a physician first or because he just has more practical hard sense than a lot of 'em have, but I urge you to notice how he insists that you give the antiseptic time to do its work.

The lady, and too many physicians and dentists, seldom pay any attention to the important factor of time in the use or application of antiseptics. They seem to think that a dash of antiseptic can work miracles, when in fact such momentary sousing of the germs probably only irritates them. The effect of antiseptics in any case is comparable with the effect of refrigeration of food. If you keep the temperature of the food low enough the bacteria or germs of putrefaction grow and multiply little or slowly and so the food is preserved from spoiling. It wouldn't do much good just to cool the food down to a low temperature for a moment and let it immediately grow warm again. Well, the more sousing or momentary application of antiseptics where germs are growing doesn't do any more good. People too readily lose sight of the fact that a good, safe antiseptic does not kill germs outright but only tends to diminish their multiplication. A good antiseptic is not magical.

Another popular misapprehension shared by too many physicians and dentists, is that good antiseptics actually aid the healing process in some mysterious manner. Of course this is just a childish fancy propagated for what there is in it for the nostrum maker. A good antiseptic is an agent that will appreciably diminish germ growth or multiplication without too greatly injuring the tissues of the body. It is merely passably useful because it does not too greatly delay or prevent natural healing.

Instead of two minutes, it is better to keep the antiseptic in contact with the gums five minutes or longer. If the agent irritates or injures the tissue when kept in contact that length of time, it is scarcely a good antiseptic.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Prevention of Whooping Cough
What do you think of vaccination for whooping cough for a 10 months' old baby, and is it always effective? There is an epidemic in our vicinity. When is the proper time to vaccinate for it? (Mrs. B. R.)
Answer—I advise you to have the baby immunized—it isn't vaccination, the bacterin is administered by hypodermic injection and there is no sore or other unpleasant effect. This is not absolutely sure protection, but it is sufficiently effective to make it well worth while if given before the child has been exposed. Even after exposure the immunization treatment is advisable. And the same treatment is of considerable benefit as a remedy in the earlier stage of whooping cough. Generally, keep the children in the open air, though of course away from contact with children who may be developing whooping cough. Whooping cough is one of the common respiratory infections (cni) whose spread our health authorities aid and abet when they teach that some alleged "colds" are not infectious.

Hydrophathic
What is meant by hydrophathic treatments? (R. C.)
Answer—Hydro means water and path means disease. I don't know just what hydrophathic means unless it refers to a fancy that all disease should be treated with water alone.

W. W. DeLong was elected general manager of the Appleton Oil and Gas Co. at a meeting of the directors held the previous evening at the office of John M. Hildt.

Mrs. F. W. Harnett, Walnut st., entertained a group of friends at cards at her home the previous evening.

A group of 16 friends surprised Mr. Viola Burton at a miscellaneous dinner the previous evening at her home on Appleton st.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Walter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Walter, of 414 W. 1st st., and Louis H. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Thompson, took place at 10 o'clock that morning at 19 o'clock at St. Edward church.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES
By Arnold Mulder

THE STORY BEHIND THE STORY.
Nothing interests me quite as much as the story behind the story. How a book came into being, how a story came to be written, what was there back of it, what the author wrote that particular story and not one of a thousand other possible ones. Only once in a great while it is possible to get at the story behind the story, but almost invariably it is interesting.

Even the publishing experiences—the mechanics of getting the story into printed form once it has been written—are usually almost as interesting as the record of the motivating forces that called the story into being. I am always amused at movie plots that revolve around a young novelist or short story writer. Almost invariably said young writer is shown sitting in his room looking at the ceiling as the psalmist did to the hills from whence his deliverance was to come, then madly tapping the keys under the spur of the inspiration he has drawn from the ceiling plaster. A month or two later his book is published and a week later he is famous.

Such promptness in publishing and the acquisition of fame may be a fact once in three million cases, but in the movies it almost never falls. I am sure the average unsuspecting movie fan has a fixed idea that all a young writer needs to do is look at the ceiling while down what he sees there and be famous in three months or so. Which is probably the reason why thousands try to write novels or plays or short stories who ought to be doing something else. If they suspected one thousandth of the grueling labor, the hardships, the disappointments, the delays that are in store for the average writer—even for the writer who has real talent and who has something to say—the chances are that thousands who now try it would never begin, and would be happier for it.

Especially the delays. The young writer who expects that a story sold this month will be in the next issue of the magazine must prepare for disillusionment. I had a letter from a Michigan writer the other day who sold an article to a high class magazine eight years ago and received a check for it at the time. The article has not yet been published. I myself sold an article to a high class magazine and was paid for it, but the article was not printed until 1927. In another case I sold an article to a first class magazine and was paid for it in 1924, but the article has not yet appeared. A writer of humorous verse tells the story of selling a poem to his new-born son to a magazine, being paid for it, but not seeing it in print until 21 years later when the new-born son had a son of his own. It sounds fantastic but it may be literally true. Another writer told me recently of selling and receiving a check for a story years ago that has never been printed. Still another writer tells of selling a story that was to be paid for on publication. It has never been published nor paid for after several years. This is not as uncommon as young writers might suppose. Magazines change hands, policies change. Material that was once "available" becomes dead matter for that particular publication. Accidents happen and manuscripts are lost. If the unlucky writer has no carbon copy he is often out of luck. Some publications are without consequence in such matters and the stories are numerous of writers trying to get redress but finally giving up in despair, the cost and effort of forcing the publication to make good too great to make it worth while.

Ivan Swift, the poet told me of an interesting experience. He was asked by a publisher to contribute some poems to an anthology which was to be edited by one of America's best known poets. He consented on condition that the well known poet would read the proofs himself. This was agreed to and the well known poet actually read the proofs and sent them to the publishers. Said publishers then wrote to Swift asking how many copies of the anthology at $17 a set he wanted, to which he replied he wanted none—he was not very eager to see his own poems in print.

When the books finally appeared Swift's poems were not in it. Evidently the publishers had made it a cold-blooded business issue. The poet who did not pay for his own poems in copies purchased was omitted, in spite of the fact that his work had been solicited. And the great American poet's name was used to make the whole thing seem respectable. There are many shabby stories behind stories as well as many that are triumphant and beautiful.

The heaviest rain ever recorded in the United States was at Taylor, Texas, in September, 1921. During a day and a night, 23.11 inches of rain fell.

The Question Box

Information on almost any subject can be secured by sending questions to the Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Fredric J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C. The bureau does not answer questions pertaining to medicine nor does it express opinions on the merits of stocks and bonds. Q. Please give a translation of the Latin under the mosaic Minerva in the Library of Congress. J. W. B.

A. The inscription in the Library of Congress to which you refer—"Nil nava Minerva quae monumentum are perennius exegit" may be translated as follows: "Minerva who erects a monument more lasting than brass."

Q. How many miles can the average person walk an hour? B. A.

A. A good walker makes about four miles an hour if he or she is in good health and is accustomed to walking. A hiker makes about five or six miles, but this pace can not be sustained over a long period of time.

Q. What is the aim of the Guggenheim aeronautic foundation? A. S. G.

A. The general purposes of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, Inc., may be broadly defined as follows: To promote aeronautical education, both academic and general; to assist in the extension of fundamental aeronautical science; to assist in the development of commercial aircraft and aircraft equipment; to further the application of aircraft in business, industry, and other economic and social activities of the nation.

Q. What industries employ the most children? M. L. W.

A. The Organizations Associated for Ratification of the Child Labor Amendment say: "The textile industry employs more children than any other, namely 55,000 children 10 to 15 years of age according to the census of 1920. The census shows beside the textile industry nearly 13,000 children between 10 and 16 years old in the steel mills; almost 12,000 in clothing factories and shirt shops; 10,500 in lumber mills and furniture factories; 7500 in shoe factories; and 5500 in coal mines. A NEW YORKER IN PARIS
By Gilbert Swan
Verdun—Ten years afterward we all got out of automobiles and stretched. We look about at the gentle slopes where the great pockmarks of war still disfigure the face of a lovely countryside. So this was the bloody sector in a war that, somehow, seems almost never to have been.
Had it not been for the white monoliths of crosses upon hills the countryside would have seemed dedicated to the memory of forgotten springs and wildflowers. There is a regularity to the rows of graves that tell you how time has sped . . . time for efficiency and burial and landscape gardening; time for new branches to burst upon overhanging trees; time for new life to appear upon the hill sides and grow old and die; time for all that and the stunner has been to die in a radiant lavender and rose with the coming of autumn.

In the Rue Auber, Paris, a fellow stops you and thrusts cards into your hand, repeating: "See the battlefields. . . See the battlefields." Just around the corner from the American Express half a dozen sight-seeing automobiles draw up and other fellows slip cards into your hand and chant, . . . Dunt fail to see the battlefields!"

In every spoke that radiates from the Place de l'Opera are other waiting cars. Trains run regularly in every direction. Tourist agencies arrange endless itineraries.

And in the end, whatever road you take, you come to the land of sloping hillsides and white crosses standing at eternal attention. And then you remember there was a war. And you remember a friend, and another friend and another.

Along the sloping hillsides groups wander. And when they converse they talk in whispers, as though this were a funeral or a church service. They walk around in that sort of lost fashion that strangers have when they are in a strange and embarrassing land. From the seats of the automobiles the raucous voice of the speller spurs the sing-song story . . . "Here, folks, is where. . . " And so on.

First it was Meaux. Is it possible the Germans were once so close to Paris and all the world's good trembling? Remember the taxicab army that saved the city? Then it's Chateau Thierry and, after a long ride through a farm scattered plain, the white crosses of Belleau Woods. Belleau Woods, where today the trees rustle as gently as spring rain falls upon the roof. At the fringes of the wood you stop and shiver, that is if you have an imagination. It isn't hard to know what might happen to any army that tried to take that wood. And there are the graves to prove it, and just beyond the neat stone house of the caretaker.

Then there's Dormans, where the eight German regiments tried to cross. The Marne runs sluggishly along and half a dozen fishermen dangle lines in the water, but catch nothing. Epernay, and finally bloody Verdun.

All about wander little groups, talking in hushed whispers. Now and then someone stops and plants a flower before a cross. Now and then a man stops and takes off his hat and tucks for a moment the few feet of earth and shakes his head, as though unable to comprehend.

And as you look about, perhaps you shake your head and find it hard to comprehend. For at your side are two Germans and they are looking about where the German dead lie buried. And they are shaking their heads. They cannot understand.

Ten years afterward, we all stretch and get back into automobiles. And we ride and ride and come to Paris and hear band play. And get out and stretch and go to a bar and stand silent over our beer as we remember pockmarked hillsides and regiments of white crosses at attention. Hours afterward, as I write, I find myself shaking my head. Still trying to understand.

and waitresses reported to the number of 41,500; messengers, bundle wrappers, office boys and girls number 48,000; sales boys and sales girls in stores, 39,000; other child clerks 22,500; insurance boys, 20,700; and there were 162,700 children in other miscellaneous occupations, making a total of nearly one-half million children in manufacturing, mechanical or industrial occupations."

Q. How long do ships take to travel through the Panama Canal? R. E.

A. The total canal journey is approximately 42 miles and the average transit time is 8 hours.

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

GOLF IS MEDICINE DOCTORS PRESCRIBE, AND TAKE, TOO
BY DR. MORRIS FISHBURN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Medical scientists take their golf seriously.

Dr. Theo. B. Hyslop, well-known British neurologist, has just dedicated a little book to his fellow sufferers of the Medical Golfing Society. In the introduction it is pointed out that not a few famous physicians are also internationally known golfers.

Dr. H. D. Gilles, one of the foremost plastic surgeons of the world, was once runner up for the British amateur championship. Incidentally he is an honest plastic surgeon who achieved remarkable results in repairing faces of soldiers wounded in the war, and not one of the quick facelifts, facelifts, wrinkle-removing plastic surgeons that infect some of our larger American cities.

PRACTICE AND PREACHING
Dr. Arzell Robertson, one of the most celebrated eye specialists of the world, has his name attached to a dictionary of golf terms.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Walter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Walter, of 414 W. 1st st., and Louis H. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Thompson, took place at 10 o'clock that morning at 19 o'clock at St. Edward church.

So highly is the pastime regarded as a physical and mental benefit by the medical profession, particularly for the high-tensioned business and professional man, that Sir Arthur Keith, the celebrated British anatomist, remarked that "if all the medical men in Edinburgh were to stop work for a twelve-month to play golf, there would not be a death more in the city." He meant the profession would be so rejuvenated after the year on the links that the business of healing human ills would be tremendously improved.

Dr. Robert Low, a famous Scottish physician, said there was no better game than golf for the health of all ages, and that it acted as a splendid medicine.

MENTAL ATTITUDE
John Henry Taylor, five times British open champion, has said that the mental attitude that one adopts towards golf governs entirely whether one can play it successfully or not. There seems to be a constant rebellion going on in the player's mind between what he knows to be right and the desire to obtain the full effect of it.

More simply stated, this state of mind is called "pressing," and the player who presses hasn't got a chance. In his consideration of the subject, Dr. Hyslop has evolved a formula for the right mental attitude. The formula for "par" golf, he says depends on three main factors: Practice, automatism and reason.

OIL AND LAND LAWS OF MEXICO CERTAIN TO BOTHER MORROW

Effort Will Be Made to Secure Payments of Mexican National Debt

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of four articles on our policy toward Mexico as affected by the appointment of Dwight Morrow as ambassador. The concluding article will deal with the forthcoming Mexican presidential election.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—When the Hon. Dwight Morrow arrives in Mexico as our new ambassador the chief matters which will occupy his interest will be:

- 1—The Mexican oil land laws.
- 2—The payment of interest on Mexican bonds held in this country and abroad.
- 3—The Mexican presidential election.

All these problems are more or less tied up with each other and are of considerable interest to the people of the United States.

The petroleum laws question, which caused a nasty exchange of notes and considerable talk of intervention less than a year ago, has subsided to a diplomatic deadlock between the two governments which is still shot with possibilities.

MIGHT LIFT EMBARGO

If the Mexican supreme court decides the laws are not constitutional, the issue will be dead. But if it decides the other way and the Calles government seize American property, it is still likely that the aims embargo will be lifted and that Mexico will, by design, be plunged into chaos. The embargo remains this country's big club over Mexico.

The situation has been saved to date by President Calles's various concessions and his failure to confiscate any oil lands. Unless he commits some unexpected overt act it may be that, after a few days in Mexico City, the situation eventually will be solved by arbitration as recommended so overwhelmingly by the United States senate.

Incidentally, the big reason that this government feels it can't allow Mexico to enforce her oil land laws is that a precedent would be established for northern countries of South America where we have huge oil stakes. By providing for the 50-year concessions, the Calles government has demonstrated that it doesn't intend to prevent our companies from getting all the oil out.

POOR FINANCIAL CONDITION

The reader may recall one or two reports within the last year concerning the doubtful ability of Mexico to make her annual bond interest payment, amounting to nearly $15,000,000. These reports were not exaggerated.

Her internal religious troubles and her row with foreign oil interests have not left Mexico in excellent financial condition. The oil companies have drastically curtailed Mexican production, putting a crimp in tax collections. This curtailment was due either to a desire to retaliate against Mexico or to the overproduction in this country—or both.

Mexico came through last year with her first payment since the fall of Porfirio Diaz. She has continued just about to make the grade. The Paul-Lamont agreement calls for monthly $500,000 payments, the balance to be made up at the end of the year. President Calles, incidentally, allowed only 8 per cent for oil taxes in his 1927 budget and on his budget for next year has failed to enter any credit for oil taxes whatever!

PAYMENT INSURANCE

Morrow's presence in Mexico City will be so much added insurance for continued payments. If Mexico falls down on them, her credit is virtually ruined throughout the world. Morrow undoubtedly will be interested in keeping Mexico in a position where she can pay and his financial mind will also consider the possibilities for eventual repayment of the bonds' $500,000,000 principal.

The Morrow appointment also seems to improve Alvaro Obregon's chances for the presidency. In the first place, Obregon would surely maintain a stronger government than any other candidate now in the field. Secondly, Obregon was the Mexican sponsor of the Payne-Warren and Paul-Lamont agreements.

The first accord has been waived by this government in the oil laws dispute, to be met by the Calles government's assertion that subsequent Mexican laws did not violate it and that even if they did it was only an agreement with the Obregon government which did not bind Obregon's successors. It was only on the signing of these agreements that this government recognized Obregon and invoked the arms embargo in such a way that he was able to continue to hold power. With Obregon president again, it is believed that this government could hold him to his own agreements.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating. No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards' spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c. adv.

Another New Jersey Lane In Mysterious Slaying

A doctor slain as he drove through a secluded lane, a wife 24 years his junior, and a poultry farmer said to have written letters to the wife addressed to "Peggy Anderson" are principal figures in New Jersey's newest murder mystery. The slain physician, Dr. A. W. Lillendahl, is shown below; Mrs. Lillendahl, his wife, above and Willis Beach, the farmer charged with "aiding and abetting in the murder, at the right.

Hammonton, N. J.—(AP)—Once more a lonely Jersey lane has become the center of a murder mystery.

The shadows of the unsolved Hall-Mills murder still lurk in DeRusser's lane, and now another secluded road, lonelier and nameless, has become the starting point for the investigation of another puzzling crime—the killing of Dr. A. William Lillendahl, 65-year-old retired narcotic specialist.

In the early afternoon of September 15, a woman staggered down the little used Atison-Indian Mills road, and to the first persons she met poured out a hysterical story of how her husband had just been slain. Questioning disclosed that she was Mrs. A. William Lillendahl.

While she was driving with her husband on the Atison road, she said, two negroes leaped upon the running board of their automobile and ordered her at pistol point to turn into a deserted side-road. When the car was stopped, she continued, she was ordered from the machine and both she and the physician were robbed of money and jewelry. When her husband made a move interpreted by the men as an effort to resist, he was shot and killed, she added.

Mrs. Lillendahl led the way back to the car and the doctor was found in the seat, dead from three bullet wounds.

For four days the 41-year old widow remained a "voluntary prisoner" while she was questioned at state police headquarters. Later she was released in $25,000 bail as a material witness.

Willis Beach, 50-year old poultry man and neighbor of the Lillendahls, became the center of the investigation when detectives questioned him about his association with the Lillendahls. Both he and Mrs. Lillendahl maintained that he was only a friend of the doctor, but later detectives said that he admitted that he wrote letters addressed to "Peggy Anderson" which were received by Mrs. Lillendahl.

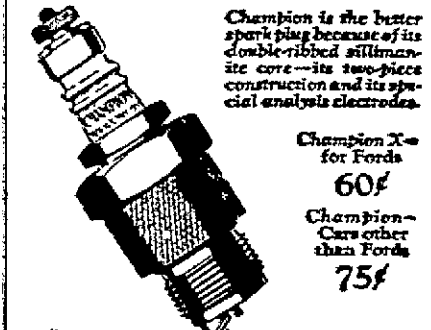

Witnesses were found who said that they had seen an automobile resembling the poultry man's near the scene of the shooting on September 15, but on the day they were to have passed upon Beach's identity, he drove away from his home and could not be found. Although his attorney protested his client's innocence, a warrant charging him with aiding and abetting the murder was issued.

Mrs. Lillendahl expressed indignation over the developments that brought Beach into the case. Through her attorney she issued a statement attributing the murder to narcotic addicts who felt they had a grievance against her husband.

The same crowd will be at 12 Corners Sunday. Hot Band.

FOOD COMMISSIONER EXPLAINS HIS TASKS

Says It Was His Duty to Weed Incompetent Men from Butter Industry

La Crosse—(AP)—The law requiring all butter makers to be licensed by the dairy and food commission was passed because butter making has become an important factor in the public life of the state, said C. J. Kremer, dairy and food commissioner in speaking before the twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Wisconsin Butter Maker's Association here Tuesday evening.

"I believe this licensing provision was enacted with the thought of bringing into this important work none but healthy, clean, competent and honest men, capable of making quality, wholesome butter," said Mr. Kremer. "I believe the power to weed diseased, unclean, incompetent and dishonest men out of the butter industry is vested in the dairy and food commissioner and I shall act upon this belief. I cannot divest myself of the duties imposed upon me by law, and I cannot delegate authority vested in me by the legislature. But there is no law which says I must not seek wise counsel where I may hope to find it or seek in and ascertaining facts wherever it may best be had.

"We must make sure that none but the fit shall in the future be given butter makers' licenses. We must eliminate from the ranks of butter makers those who have proved themselves unfit. The first we can do by setting upon me by law, and I cannot aspire for better makers' licenses must measure and designate qualifications which a person must have before he is to be considered entitled to a butter maker's license.

"The high grade butter man does not take foul smelling, unsanitary cream and doctor it up and mask its abominations and mix it into butter which he is able to pass into the channels of trade, but he insists on clean and wholesome cream derived from clean and wholesome milk," said Kremer. "To do otherwise a butter maker builds upon sand and not upon the rocks of quality and obedience to law. It is up to your association to stand for and uphold high ideals and combat with all the power at your disposal the false notion of good enough, we cannot be prosecuted for it. It is up to you to teach your members to do what is right and support them.

Proud of Its Size

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is proud to be a "big business." But it is proud of its size only because it is the direct result and the tangible measure of its usefulness.

The people of the Middle West are responsible for the size of this Company. They have encouraged its growth by demanding its products in ever-increasing quantities. The size of the Company has increased in proportion to the service required of it.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been working for years with one definite, conscious purpose—to serve to the best of its ability, the people of the Middle West.

Its singleness of purpose and its faithfulness to that purpose have been recognized and appreciated. Constantly and steadily demands for its products have multiplied.

This is the best proof of appreciation that could be had. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) operates in a highly competitive market. It buys its products because they know they will get full value for their money. People go out of their way to find its Service Stations because they know they will receive the attention of men who not only are skilled to serve them, but who are intensely interested in serving them well.

A feeling of mutual respect has grown up between this Company and the people of the Middle West. By a dependability that never varies, by an honesty of purpose that never changes, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has proved itself worthy of trust.

By a growing demand for its service, the public has shown its appreciation. This, in turn, has created an increased sense of responsibility on the part of the Company.

It is a big job the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has to do today. It must fuel and lubricate millions of motor cars and a vast growing number of airplanes. Industries in ten great Middle Western states must be supplied with petroleum products. Wheels on the farms, in the homes and the factories require many highly specialized lubricants, which have been developed to fill the many various requirements.

Hundreds of other products must be manufactured to fill hundreds of other human needs—and to share the costs of production with the major products making low prices possible.

Manufacturing is not all of the job. This Company has built up a vast system of distribution reaching all corners of the Middle West—making its service as convenient to the farmer in a remote rural section as to the city person.

It is a big job the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has to do today—serving the 30 million people of the Middle West. Work that is worth the doing! All of the 29,000 employees of the Company feel the same way about it. Only their best will do!

Baby Show To Be Feature Of American Legion Frolic

All babies of Outagamie county are eligible to enter the baby show which will be one of the features of the harvest frolic and industrial display sponsored by Oney Johnston post of the American legion from Oct. 25 to 29 at Armory G. Officials of the frolic are preparing to take care of more than 100 little tots between the ages of six months and four years. Parents who desire to enter their babies in the contest are urged to telephone 3612 for entry blanks. Application cards will be sent to all those who request them. No entry fee will be required for the show, which will be held on the afternoons of the frolic and will be run off as an elimination contest. Beginning Wednesday, Oct. 26, and continuing through Saturday, three children will be selected each afternoon to enter the "semi-final" competition. From the 12 "best babies" left from this competition, the three "best" will be selected, also on Saturday afternoon, for the finals. Then the "very best" baby will be selected and the others ranked second and third. Three prizes will be awarded.

The first applicants to telephone 3612 will receive first choice of the afternoons on which they desire to enter babies. All applications must be in before 6 o'clock Saturday evening, Oct. 22. Parents may enter more than one child, but their ages must be between six months and four years.

The afternoon program of the harvest frolic will not be made up solely of the baby show, however, as there are to be numerous other attractions for the amusement and entertainment of the frolic patrons. One of the attractions will be the style show which will be presented every afternoon and evening of the five day show. There also will be music, vaudeville and other stunts while all of the industrial booths will be open for inspection.

The fall rally of the Fox River Valley Zone will be held Sunday, Oct. 23 at Trinity Lutheran church at Neenah. Services will be held at 10:30 in the morning and a business meeting will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. An entertainment will be given in the evening at the parish hall. Each society represented at the rally will be requested to give a stunt. Dinner will be served at 12 o'clock and supper at 5:30 in the parish hall. About 35 members of the local Senior society are planning to attend.

An invitation has also been received from the Milwaukee-Waukesha zone for a banquet to be held Saturday evening, Oct. 15 at Milwaukee in connection with a rally of that zone to be held on Sunday. The banquet will be held at 7 o'clock at the American Lutheran auditorium.

Plans were discussed for "Messenger" campaign, the official magazine of the league which will be conducted during November. Each member will visit members of the congregation and secure at least one new subscriber.

The society has voted to sponsor three Walthers league lectures during the winter. The lectures will be given at the church for members of the congregation. A committee to take charge of the lectures will be appointed.

HOLD HALLOWEEN PARTY FOR YOUNG FOLKS IN CHURCH

A Halloween party for members of the G. Y. W. of First Congregational church was held Tuesday evening at the church. Supper was served at 6 o'clock to about 30 members. Decorations were carried out in Halloween colors.

The program opened with a mixer game after which supper was served. A future telling game was one of the features. Miss Evelyn Wilde a former student of Northland college at Ashland, a Congregationalist institution, told the women about the college. A social hour followed the program.

Plans were discussed for activities for the remainder of the year.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Mostly cloudy tonight; somewhat colder. Frost is feared here; Thursday generally fair and slightly warmer in the afternoon.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

The low pressure area noted yesterday moving over the central valleys is now centered over Michigan, with a trough southward to the gulf. Rains have been general during the past 24 hours from the plains states to the Appalachians and from Canada, to the Tennessee valley. Higher pressure over the Rock Mountain region, with lower temperatures, ready to cross the mountains to the plains states. This distribution of the weather controls favors considerable cloudiness in this section tonight and Thursday, with lower temperatures as the "high" spreads eastward.

KAUKAUNA-LITTLE CHUTE-KIMBERLY

NEARBY
TOWNSCHILTON WOMAN IS ELECTED PRESIDENT
OF RELIEF CORPS130 Delegates Attend District
Conference in Kaukauna on Tuesday

Kaukauna—The fifteenth district convention of the Women's Relief Corps was held in Kaukauna Tuesday morning and afternoon with the general sessions at the high school auditorium. Mrs. Francis Nelson of Kaukauna, president of the district, presided. About 130 delegates from the district were present.

During the morning session the P. H. Beaulieu Relief Corps of Kaukauna was inspected by the district inspector, Mrs. Gertrude Rau of Chilton. After the inspection the convention adjourned to the Legion building for dinner.

Mayor W. C. Sullivan gave the address of welcome after the dinner. He spoke on "The Work of Women's Organizations." The mayor told the large number of delegates present that women were idealists while the men were selfish and were always more interested in material things than in the betterment of the community. In political life women stand for cleaner government than men do and the programs sponsored by women's organizations are more beneficial. Women will tolerate unfair government only a certain length of time and then will demand a change for the better. Mayor Sullivan said "You always know which way a man is going to vote for most always he votes a straight party ticket. This is not true about women. You never can count on their votes but they will always vote which ever way in their own mind they think is right. Even in the home life the woman is more concerned about the family than the man and many times after the man leaves the house in the morning for the office he forgets all about the family until his return in the evening."

Mrs. Mary Liebman of Green Bay gave the response.

At the afternoon session officers for the coming year were elected. Mrs. Gertrude Rau of Chilton was chosen president. Other officers are: Senior vice president, Mrs. Margaret Molnar of Hilbert; junior vice president, Mrs. Fannie Nelson of Kaukauna; treasurer, Mrs. Rose Marie Treck of Green Bay; conductor, Mrs. Anna Heft of New Holstein; guard, Mrs. Elert of Peshigo and chaplain, Mrs. Marie Lindemuth of New Holstein. Chilton was decided upon as the next convention city.

Reports from the various corps were given during the afternoon. Oneida was the only corps not represented. A vocal solo was presented by Mrs. John Cleland and several piano solos by Mrs. Eva Farwell. Miss Mona Wright gave a reading.

Kaukauna—Plans for a visiting day card party to be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon were made at the regular meeting of the Women of Mooseheart Legion held Monday night in Moose hall. It was decided to hold these parties every Friday afternoon following the second and fourth meetings of the Mooseheart Legion. It has been announced that the public is cordially invited to attend these parties. Plans were also made for a Ballroom character party to be given for members of the Moose organization and their families on Thursday evening, Oct. 27.

Invitations for the teacher's reception being given by the Kaukauna Rotary club at the Elk's hall on Friday evening were mailed Monday. All of the teachers in the city have been invited to the party which is given annually in their honor.

DEFER CONSTRUCTION OF PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

Kaukauna—Construction of the St. Mary's parochial school will not be started until spring, although the foundation may be started some time this fall. L. F. Nelson, member of the building board, said Tuesday. All bids for electrical, plumbing and marble work were rejected by the board following the acceptance of W. H. Farley's bid of $60,180 for constructing the building. The Farley construction company is from New Lisbon. Mr. Nelson said the reason the minor bids were rejected was that the building committee did not have time enough to consider them and there may be some changes made in the kind of material used. Bids for the electrical, plumbing and marble will not be sought again for several months.

The new school is to be constructed on Main-ave between Seventh and Eighth-st.

BURIAL AT SHERWOOD
Kaukauna—The body of Miss Cecilia Koleske of Racine, sister of Mrs. Anna Staid of this city, will not be brought to Kaukauna for burial as originally planned but will be taken to the family lot in the Sherwood Catholic cemetery. The journey from Racine to Sherwood will be made by automobile and burial is expected to be some time Wednesday afternoon. Miss Koleske died at Racine at noon Monday.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Gordon Patton. His telephone numbers are 238 J and 10. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Patton.

200 ATTEND K. OF C.
LANDING DAY PROGRAM

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna council of the Knights of Columbus observed Landing day on Monday evening with a dinner dance which was attended by 200 members and their ladies. Following the banquet in the K. of C. hall a short program was presented. Attorney Gerald Clifford of Green Bay was the speaker of the evening discussing Americanism. Mrs. Otto Aufreiter sang a solo. She was accompanied on the piano by Miss Lucille Dietzler. The Becker sisters entertained with violin and piano duets. About 9 o'clock the group went over to Eagle hall where the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing. Music was furnished by Bill Marquardt's orchestra. The dance originally was scheduled for Wednesday evening but the date was changed to Oct. 10 because of the lyceum number at the auditorium on Wednesday night.

CONTRACTORS START
TWO PAVING PROJECTS

Kaukauna—Two paving contractors, F. J. Humphries of Milwaukee and J. J. McAndrews of Kaukauna, have started the paving work on the south side in earnest. On Tuesday Main-ave from Third-st to Fifth-st was graded for the concrete while work was started between Fifth-st and Seventh-st where the street will be paved with Amiesite. The McCarty Construction Co. has also started grading on Metoxen-ave and Hendricks-ave while a crew of Humphries men are busy on Dixon-st. The contractors have fifty days in which to complete the contracts.

GRIDDERS DRILLING
FOR SHAWANO GAMEMcAndrews Isn't Taking
Much Stock in Bear Stories from Northern School

Kaukauna—Coach McAndrews is whipping his football squad into shape for the game with Shawano at Shawano on Saturday. Shawano several years ago was one of Kaukauna's toughest opponents but in the last three years there have been comparatively weak squads at the northern school. This fall Shawano has been defeated by Kewaunee by a 19 to 13 score while the latter school has suffered defeat from Sturgeon Bay.

The coach, however, is paying little or no attention to reports of the weak condition of the northern school and is more concerned about making sure that the Orange and Black comes through with a good victory.

This will be Kaukauna's third conference game. The Kawa won 14 to 6 from Menasha and held Oconto to a scoreless tie. Neenah and Two Rivers still have to be played while Appleton is a non-conference team. The McAndrews men can finish among the leaders if the eleven can win the remaining three conference games.

Oconto Falls continues to lead the conference after taking an easy 36 to 0 victory from Neenah Saturday. This is the third consecutive victory for the Falls team. West De Pere continued with a perfect percentage with an 18 to 0 win over Algoma.

DRY AGENTS ORDERED
TO COVER UP GUNSLess Spectacular Effect and Less Drinking, Word from Dry Commissioner

Washington, D. C.—Less gunplay and liquor drinking by prohibition agents is demanded by the prohibition bureau in a new manual of instructions for dry agents issued Monday by Prohibition Commissioner Moran.

Agents with a flair for the spectacular are warned against displaying drawn revolvers when raiding night clubs and cabarets. The regulations, however, still allow agents to carry revolvers and to use them when they "deem it necessary for self-defense."

"There is no need for dry agents to use their guns when making routine raids," Mr. Moran said in explaining the regulations.

"There has been too much gunplay in days gone by. Of course we still realize there are times when it is necessary for a man to shoot to defend himself. Our feeling is that an agent never should shoot unless his life or the life of another agent is actually menaced."

CAN USE GUNS IN MOUNTAINS

Agents are still allowed the use of shotguns, rifles and machine guns in operating against moonshiners in the mountainous district. The commissioner refused to discuss the Gundlach case at Leonardtown, Md., where four prohibition agents recently killed an old farmer when he resisted their intrusion on his property.

Dr. Moran's manual admonishes dry agents against unnecessary drinking in obtaining evidence. Drinking, he said, should only be done in line of duty. It was revealed that in some districts administrators have arranged so that only certain dry agents are allowed to drink liquor. Those agents identified with padlock squads are allowed to drink to obtain evidence; others must be teetotalers.

The prohibition authorities said department of justice records showed that convictions of dry law violators had increased two per cent in the last year.

MUSICAL GENUISES NOW ARE WELL PAID

No More Does Struggling Musician Live in Attic, Gnawing Crust

New York—Days when struggling young musicians lived in drafty garrets and gnawed at stale crusts to keep the flame of their genius from starving before it was smothered by the past, in the opinion of Ben Selvin, for Ben is among the many that have found that musical genius is well paid.

Selvin, for an impressive consideration, has signed a contract whereby he quits the Broadway that has hailed him for the past 15 years to prepare one program a week for the Columbia Broadcasting System's network.

To doubters of his statement, Selvin advises a casual jaunt in Long Island "Look around at the 'for sale' signs," he suggests.

"What'll you see?—why, 'For sale, by Ben Selvin' and 'A bargain, Selvin Realty Company,' or some such legend. 'Out of what Broadway pays for a merry tune, I've stacked up on enough real estate to keep six real estate companies, in which I have an interest, busy making more insurance against garrets'."

Today's musical geniuses, Selvin declares are not only well paid but they are quite certain to be kept busy, many of them playing in more than one orchestra as their time permits.

"A member of a night club orchestra," he says, "goes to work at 11 o'clock in the evening. For that he gets, if he is fairly good, around $25."

"He has his attentions and things. With today's demand for phonograph recordings, and the thousand and one orchestral entertainments, he will put in four or five other engagements in his days at $25 each."

Selvin says that it is not at all unusual for a clever orchestra musician to make from $300 to $400 a week, through the season.

Selvin, before "going radio," was director of the orchestra at the famous old Moulin Rouge for five years and later presided for two years at the Fivinity club. He is particularly valuable to his new field for his wide acquaintances of musicians and for his knowledge of radio and phonograph technique, having made 3000 recordings, which is claimed to be a world's record.

STAGE And SCREEN

WILLIAM HAINES' NEWEST FILM IS ONE LONG LAUGH
Probably every golfer has a different way of playing golf.

Certainly every comedian has a different way of making laughs—but the finest comedian of the "different" entertainment—and golf is concerned in it—"Spring Fever," William Haines' new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle coming to Fischer's Appleton Theater Thursday and Friday.

"Spring Fever" is one long, loud laugh. It starts when Haines' as the shipping clerk, is discovered by the boss to be a golf expert. It runs through his trials and tribulations when the boss takes him to the country club, introduces him as a young millionaire and proceeds to boost him as a coming champion. Cupid takes a hand and so does a rival for the lady of his choice. Then things happen—and how!

STAR'S BEST FILM
The plot is startling original and time honored methods of gaining laughs are conspicuous by their absence. They don't seem to be needed with Haines. The things he did in "Brown of Harvard" and "Slide, Kelly, Slide," indicate this—but in the new picture he goes them all one better.

There are a few thrills in the picture, too—and a great deal of clever golf stuff, all the way from exposition of trick shots to straight playing, and in between there are some hilarious parodies on the grand old Scotch game that would make even the austere inventor of golf roar with hilarity were he here today.

Joan Crawford makes a charming heroine in the new picture, and the cast is a remarkably chosen one. George K. Arthur appears as the golfing boss and Edward Earle as Haines' rival, the golf champion. George K. Arthur and Lee Moran contribute the character comedy roles and both give good accounts of themselves in hilarious hits. Eileen Percy, Bert Woodruff and others of note are seen in adequately enacted parts. Edward Earle, who directed Haines in "Slide, Kelly, Slide," is responsible for the megaphone work.

COMPLETE CONSTRUCTION OF BIG RETAINING WALL

Work has been completed on the construction of a retaining wall on Mason-st near Fourth-st, just north of the viaduct. The wall is on the east side of a street and was built to prevent washing of dirt from the embankment across the sidewalk.

Street department workers Tuesday spiked and rolled part of Outagamie-st that was in poor condition. As soon as the weather permits, they are to boulevard Prospect-ave at Story-st, removing the present continuation of the pavement on the south side of Prospect-ave, and laying a curbing and grading the land adjacent to the curb.

SPEEDER PAYS $10 FINE IN MUNICIPAL COURT HERE

George Mulders was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Bern in municipal court Tuesday morning when he pleaded guilty of speeding. Mulders was arrested by Walter Farrell, motorcycle officer, for traveling 54 miles per hour in the town of Center on Sunday. Kenneth Cornish, arrested in the town of Duck Creek for traveling 52 miles an hour, has not yet appeared in court. Officer Farrell also made this arrest last Sunday.

Beer Barons Are Reality In Britain; Sit In Parliament

BY MILTON BRONNER

London—Referring to the new game of letter golf a British wit recently remarked it was no trick at all to change "peage" to "beage" in this country.

His inference was, of course, to the large number of brewers and whisky distillers who had been raised to the rank of peers and now sit entrenched in the House of Lords.

But that is not the only place where the booze lords are on top. They also have their men in the House of Commons and many of them because of their wealth and the large contributions they make to party campaign funds, have been given positions of influence and power on the big committees.

BEER'S PRIVILEGE
But the real power of booze in this country is not shown so much in the Parliament, nor the press nor the busy-forging tactics of the clergy, as it is in the streets of London.

CITY HALL "CROWD" FROWNS ON SHOWING OF WHISKERED FACES

Hirsute adornment has practically passed out of favor in this day and age, a little snuffing around the city hall has revealed.

Of the 31 members of the city since 1857, whose pictures are hung in the common council room, 17 physiognomies are hidden beneath bushy whiskers or mustaches, or both. But there has been an alarming slump, on, as one might say, a whole lot of barefaced work around the city hall of late.

Of the 11 aldermen only one has as much as a mustache. One or two have eyebrows which may an aspiring young man would give a week's pay to use as a mustache. Three are classed as "B H's" or bald heads and another is rapidly getting into that class.

Of the 20 other city officials, six are bewhiskered.

REPARATIONS SOUGHT BY PAPER COMPANIES

Reparations are being asked by the Thirty-ninth Paper and Paper company of the Kaukauna and the Wisconsin Paper and Pulp Manufacturers Association from the Lake Superior and Ishpeming and the Chicago and Northwestern railroads in 1921 and 1925. The case will be heard at an early date by the Interstate Commerce Commission in Chicago.

In a recent decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission it was held that the freight rates charged on sulphur as between the mines in Louisiana and Eau Claire were not discriminatory to Eau Claire manufacturers. The case was fought by the Green Day Traffic organization which objected strenuously to the claims.

The contention of Eau Claire manufacturers was that they were being

RAIN DELAYS WORK ON JACKMAN-ST APPROACH

Workmen will repair approaches to Jackman-st as soon as the weather allows, according to Robert Huckworth, street commissioner. The work on S State-st at the Jackman-st intersection is to be moved towards the curb and a level walk is to be constructed across Jackman-st. Pedestrians normally would use the pavement as a walk but the angle of the hill at that point is such as to make such a product dangerous in the winter time. The work will be a part of the pavement approach.

PHIL ZWICK, KAUKAUNA BOY, MEETS THOMAS HERE OCT. 21

Classy Kawton Mitman Back Again From Ohio To Battle Speed Star

Phil's Opponent Regarded as Cleverest Ring General in This Vicinity

Phil Zwick, Kaukauna, vs. Joey Thomas, Chicago and Oshkosh. That's the sweet headliner of a card of fistie bouts which will be staged by the Appleton Athletic club at Armory G on Friday evening, Oct. 21 according to an announcement of club officials on Tuesday. Four of five other bouts are all said to be good matches, and being arranged for the card but the Zwick-Thomas battle is expected to pack the house.

Zwick, Kaukauna's pride has been establishing a great record in the east, and last year when he returned here he battered Snake Agunaldo from pillar to post, but the tough Filipino "didn't" choose to be knocked out. This week Phil thumped Spark Russell, sending him to dreamland in the fifth round of a windup bout in Canton, Ohio. His Kaukauna Valley and state friends will be anxious to see how he has improved and as a result the attendance should be large. Last year he drew all of Kaukauna and the town was "dead" from 7 to 12 o'clock. At one time between those hours not a person was seen on the streets but those working for the night who were unlucky enough not to be able to close down or get a helper to take their places while they travelled to the ring side.

And not only will Zwick draw Valley fans, Thomas is a great favorite with Fox Valley sportsmen through his great work in his last four bouts in this vicinity. He also will pack 'em in from Chicago his former home, according to reports. Thomas now is making his home in Oshkosh, where he beat Al Darvas, class 150 lbs. He beat a strong foe at Fondy a few weeks ago though fighting the entire scrap with a broken hand.

Included among the men Joey has fought are Eddie Bisque, Tiger Jack Burns, who he beat in eight fast rounds, and Babe Ruth, the husky, Louisville slugger, who close fight followers say is on his way to a title because of his smashing punch. Ruth has a record of 12 straight knockouts in the south.

"SECOND BUD TAYLOR" Thomas was dubbed the "second Bud Taylor" recently. A newspaper clipping says:

"Joey Thomas, who now is called the second Bud Taylor, will meet Babe Ruth Thomas has scored nothing but wins since entering the professional ranks and just last week beat Tiger Burns. He loves to mix."

Another Joey Thomas, the rangy blond bantam who boxes superbly, is getting his second shot in higher society when he meets Babe Ruth. Thomas is a talented boxer and he showed nicely in stabling Tiger Burns to defeat recently. The boy has possibilities and a win tonight will boost his stock highly.

Local men, and there are many, who have seen Thomas fight, say he is one of the smartest ring generals of the country, a man who knows the ropes and a feature as a boxer.

Here's another shot on Thomas under the head "Kayo Wonders on Fight Card Here Tonight, Joey Thomas of St. Paul Hot on Trail of Bud Taylor."

"Scoring seven knockouts in 15 fights, Joey Thomas of St. Paul, one of the principals in the East Aurora, flood relief program tonight, is hot on the trail of the Taylor of Terra Haute for a championship match. Thomas is 20 years of age and has been in the ring but seven months. Hailing from St. Paul where real fighters grow and develop, his record sheet indicates that he is one of the few contenders in the featherweight class today."

LOU GEHRIG NAMED MOST VALUABLE MAN

Yankee Star 1st-baseman Honored by Committee of Diamond Scribes

New York—(P)—Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman and their apparent to the sultan of swat should the perpetual Ruth ever weaken, has been designated by a committee of baseball writers as the "most valuable player" of the American league in 1927. Ban Johnson, league president, made this announcement Tuesday night.

Seven of the eight writers, one from each city of the league, named Gehrig as their first choice.

The other place went to Tony Lazzeri, Yankee second baseman.

Gehrig won the award, which is honorary and without monetary value, on his all-around ability and value, particularly his effectiveness at bat.

Fighting Teams Clash On Card Grid Saturday

Madison—(P)—"Tad" Weiman's Wolverines will invade Camp Randall Stadium on Saturday with their full fighting front to meet Glenn Thibault's Badgers, who will be in a fighting mood at the appointed hour, 2 o'clock. Gilbert, star Michigan back, who was a sensation when Wisconsin played the Nazis and Blue last fall, was only slightly injured in the game with Michigan State last Saturday.

In Gilbert Michigan has one of the best fullbacks in the middle west, for the hard driving Michigan fullback can also be walled up to nose and in the last locker on the squad. The Wolverines are being trained this week to keep the versatile Wolverine in his varied endeavors, and of Wisconsin can succeed in doing this time, the afternoon will not be any too early for the invaders.

GEHRIG, P. WANER, HONORED BY MATES

World's Series Players Choose Lou, Paul as "Most Valuable" Men

New York—(P)—If the opinions of most of the players participating in the late world's series mean anything the most valuable player awards for 1927 will go to Larrupping Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman for the American league and Paul Waner, Pirate right fielder in the National league.

The views of the players themselves are significant, perhaps, but they are not the determining factor. The awards, made annually, are based on the ballots of baseball writers representing the cities in each circuit.

Last year the honor and its $1,000 National league emolument fell to Bob O. Farrell, star catcher and new manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. The American league award went to George Burns, Cleveland first baseman.

Gehrig, most of the ball players feel, is the logical American league choice this season. Columbia Lou gave Babe Ruth a hot chase most of the year for home run honors and finished with a total of 47, more than any other player in baseball history except the Bambino himself. He set the new record for driving in runs, 119 and finished third in the batting.

Gehrig was a star too in the world's series, despite the fact that some of his previous good work was offset a bit when he trucked out in the dramatic ninth inning of the final game.

Paul Waner, National league batting champion and a finished all around performer, in spite of the fact that he has completed his second major league season contributed probably more than any other individual to Pittsburgh's pennant triumph. Paul was the only regular to play through the season without being injured or out from other cause.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

Al Lichten, veteran center of Appleton high school football teams for the last two years, is playing a neat game at center for the Marquette freshmen this fall, according to reports from Milwaukee. Al is a big husky with plenty of fight and he should make a good varsity guard or center for the Milwaukee school next year. He was all set to go to Lawrence this fall when Al Lichten convinced him, somehow or other, that he probably could get a better education at Marquette.

With him are two men who also were all conference selections last year or the year before. Eultman of West, husky lineman and McGuire,

Five teams of the new Northwest Wisconsin Interscholastic conference, led by the strong Oconto Falls eleven, still have perfect percentage in the loop race, according to reports issued after last Saturday's games from the office of J. L. Kitowski, Menasha, secretary of the league. The Falls crew has three straight wins without a loss or a tie followed by W. DePere with two wins, no losses or ties.

New London and Two Rivers each have a victory, no losses or ties, while Harry McAndrews' Kaws have a win and a tie. W. De Pere, Kaukauna and Oconto Falls appear the strongest with the latter team the best favorite. Fifteen schools are members of the loop.

Last Saturday Oconto Falls ran up the largest score on its rivals with 35-0 win over Ole Jorgensen's Neenah boys. The Falls eleven had taken up other two wins by large margins. W. De Pere beat Algoma, 18-0, East beat Kewaunee, 6-0. New London trounced the weak Clintonville team, which has lost three straight games, 32-0. Sturgeon Bay conquered Oconto, 12-0, and Kaukauna triumphed over Menasha, 14-6. Two Rivers, Gillett and Shawano were idle.

SATURDAY GAMES

E. GREEN BAY AT APPLETON. Marinette at W. Green Bay

Only two games are carded for Fox River Valley conference football teams this Saturday but both may be termed "crucial" battles in the race for the loop title. Of course the most important is the West-Marquette battle which will dump one title contender from a clear record unless a tie, which is hardly probable, results. Almost as important is the East Appleton struggle at Waunakee field.

The West-Marquette game is a toss up, though having seen Marinette in action and knowing West's passing combination with Herber tossing, on-ly too well, we are inclined to give the Baymen the edge. Marinette has won two games, including the Appleton upset, and West beat its first conference foe by a large score Saturday.

The other game also may remove a clear mark, as Appleton playing at home, and with Johnston in the line, may under East's speedy team. However, East upset Fond du Lac by the biggest conference score of the year, 46-6, even higher than Appleton ran up against the Reds with Johnston in the lineup. In it a backfield, Capt. Klaus, Shekore, Fomierick and others have been making from 40 to 80 yard runs around the ends since the season opened, so that the Orange ends and backs will have plenty of work on their hands. Klaus and Shekore in particular are good for at least two runs a game, according to reports.

With the topnotchers battling the hope is liable to be upset all over the place and many changes are likely. Appleton, by beating East can pull to second, a game from Marinette, providing the Northwesterns beat West. A West win while Appleton also wins will leave Marinette and the Orange far behind West. An Appleton loss will drop the Orange to a triple tie for fifth and will just about run its title chances. All set for the battle of topnotchers.

East Green Bay's heady quarterback, Add to this Radick of West on the first squad.

It never rains but it pours, is the truest slogan out, it seems. Here where four Appleton stars, Johnston, Tommer, Krause and Schaefer, are coming back to playing form after bad injuries and are about ready to so against the strong East Green Bay squad Saturday, two more serious injuries to acts appear. However, both and at least one will be ready to go Sunday. Getelson played on a twisted ankle over half the game at Marinette and it is bothering him considerably today. Pope has the same kind of injury that Johnston had, twisted muscles in his leg and it is not known if he can play.

Not Brawn This Days It's not brawn but speed and quick thinking that count in football these days says Bob Zipp of Appleton.

Is at Santa Clara Alvin Walsh to meet Notre Dame center is coaching at Santa Clara College in California this year.

BACK AGAIN

PHIL ZWICK

Pride of Kaukauna, who has been knocked out for the well-known row in the east, will return to show his home town boosters and Valley fans how much he has improved. He battles at Armory G on Oct. 21, against Joey Thomas of Chicago and Oshkosh, who have seen him battle several times in this vicinity say he is too smart a ring general and boxer for Zwick's slugging, but Phil's boosters are equally sure of a K. O. for the Kew boy. Last time here he beat Snake Agunaldo, tough Filipino.

JOEY CLEIN KNOCKED OUT BY KID BONILLAS

Milwaukee—(P)—Billy Bonillas, Taft, Calif., knocked out Joey Clein of Milwaukee, in the third round of a scheduled ten-rounder here Tuesday night. It was the first time Clein had been knocked out in his four years of professional boxing. They were matched at 130 pounds. Howard Bentz, Milwaukee middleweight, knocked out Young Taft of Chicago in the third round. His bout also was scheduled for ten rounds. Irving Berndt of Milwaukee, in the opinion of newspaper men, shaded Bob Young of Detroit. They are lightweights.

Back in School Bobby Jones is again studying law at Emory University.

Referee Not Always To Blame For Hard Decision

BY DR. E. J. O'BRIEN Famous Football Referee

Most football fans do not realize that before a big game the referee has a great many details to look after.

The first is to see that the ball is one which is made according to the dimensions laid down in the rules. They state that the ball shall be made of leather, in which is a rubber bladder, and that this must be tightly inflated and, when so, shall have the shape of a prolate spheroid. The circumference of the long axis shall be from 28 to 28 1/2 inches, and the circumference of the short axis from 22 1/2 to 23 inches.

Also, he must weigh the ball, which shall weigh not less than 14 or more than 15 ounces. He must also see that the field is a rectangular field, 360 feet in length, and 160 feet in width. He must also see that the field is properly marked with white lines five yards apart and parallel to the goal lines. The goal line is established in the field of play 10 yards from the parallel to the end lines.

It seems to one who has specialized as a referee that the majority of spectators appear to be of the mind that the referee, and he alone, calls all fouls and inflicts all penalties. It might be well to get acquainted with what constitute the duties of the four main officials of a football game.

The referee has general oversight and control of the game, and is the sole authority for the score and the sole judge of the forfeitures of the game under the rules. The decision on all matters, not especially designated to other officials, shall be final. The main function of the referee is to see that the ball is properly put in play, and, except as otherwise provided, he shall be the sole judge of its position and progress.

The umpire is the judge of the conduct and position of the players. He is charged with seeing that the players wear only equipment as provided for in the rules. For instance, if a player has sharp metal cleats, or has hard metal or projecting shoulder pads, knee pads, etc., it is the duty of the umpire to see that this equipment is not worn. He is the man who calls most of the fouls committed by players, such as holding, pushing, pulling, tripping and the like. He reports the foul to the referee, who then proceeds to inflict the penalty.

The line-sman is under the supervision of the referee and marks the distances gained or lost in the progress of the play. He is also charged with seeing that players are on-side when the ball is put in play, and is to look out for the tripping of ends, encroachment on the neutral

HAWKEYE ELEVEN WORKS FOR WABASH, MINNESOTA GAMES

Iowans Encouraged After Buckeye Contest; Work on Better Aerial Attack

Iowa City—(P)—Heard by their great game against Ohio City, Iowa's football team is being further developed for the Wabash contest here Saturday and for the Minnesota affair the following week.

The Hawkeyes came through in a style hardly looked for by the most optimistic critics. An adamant line and a back-field which gained 223 yards to the Buckeyes' 133 were the cause of Iowa jubilation even though the points favored Ohio State, 13 to 6.

No easy game is expected when the Indiana collegians appear on Iowa field Saturday for Wabash holds three victories in as many states. Their victories were Danville (Ind.) Normal, 31 to 0; Georgetown (Ky.) 12 to 2, and Miliuk (Ill.) 12 to 7.

Further polishing of the Iowa passing attack will be done this week. With Paul Amlil, fullback, hailing the ball, the Iowans completed six consecutive passes for a total gain of 96 yards and one touchdown. The 25-yard dash of Frank Cuhel, end, after receiving a 12-yard pass brought the Iowa score.

Even though six sophomores were in the lineup the Iowa eleven failed to crack when the breaks went to Ohio State. Coach Ingwersen and his assistants did remarkable work in a week, developing Cuhel and Carlsen, ends, and Westra and Schleusner, guard and tackle on the left side of the line.

It is unlikely that further radical changes will be made in the Iowa lineup to the Minnesota game, if injuries do not interfere with Ingwersen's plans.

College Captains

COTHRAN OF LAFAYETTE Easton, Pa.—He's a tackle, yet he scored 29 points for Lafayette last year.

That's the story of Harold D. Cotthran, captain of this year's team.

Cotthran was relied upon last year to add the extra points after touchdown. He booted 23 successfully. He also tried his hand in three point markers and annexed a couple of 'em.

This lad is one of the youngest captains in collegiate football this year. And he's one of the heaviest. He is only 19 years old and he weighs 214 pounds.

Cotthran is forced to wear a brace around his left guard knee in every game. He injured the knee while playing guard two years ago, but has not managed to get it in shape to permit playing without the brace. His home is in Niagara Falls, N. Y.

JOHNNY TELLS HOW HE LEARNED TO HOLE OUT

Johnny Fari II, who is touring with Tommy Armour, the United States and Canadian champion, is regarded as being one of the greatest putters that ever lived.

When he and Armour came to the Butte des Moits club here Wednesday for their exhibition he showed the art of getting those aggravating four, five and six footers into the hole.

Johnny told how he came by his uncanny ability. "You see I started in as a caddy when I was a little fellow," he said. "I was so small that most people thought I wasn't able to carry their heavy bags around. Not being able to walk and not being able to play, I used to spend hours on the practice putting green and gradually developed such a touch that I began to think I was terrible if I didn't hole eight and ten footers nearly every time."

LAKE FOREST, RIPON, MEET IN FOND DU LAC

Old W-I Conference Rivals Battle on Neutral Field for 1st Time

Ripon—When Coach Carl Doehling's Ripon college grid-10000 opens Friday afternoon at Reuping's field, Fond du Lac, against Lake Forest college, two traditions as old as Wisconsin's football will be shattered together.

The first is that of departing from the habitual Saturday afternoon schedule for grid games. Competition of the Big Ten in drawing crowds away from Wisconsin's smaller colleges is the primary cause for holding the Ripon-Lake Forest game on Friday, and although an experiment is believed by Coach Carl Doehling here to solve the problem of decreasing attendance.

Classes at Ripon will be dismissed to enable students to attend en masse. The other tradition to be shattered Friday is that of playing a Wisconsin-Illinois conference game on a neutral field. In all the hundreds of battles fought by Little Five members in past seasons, the Fond du Lac field will be the first belonging to neither of the schools competing for honors. The purpose of the plan, Ripon college officials state is to widen popular interest in football.

WEIMAN SEEKS PASS ARTIST FOR BATTLE WITH BADGER CREW

Mich Takes Secret Workout
in Effort to Keep Card Win
Streak Intact

Chicago, Ill.—(AP)—The burden of an unbroken string of victories over Wisconsin for more than 25 years, turned over by "Hurry up" Yost this fall to "Fat" Weiman to carry on, has driven the new Michigan coach into secret practice while the search goes on for a successor to Benny Friedman. A good passer being vitally necessary, Weiman appears to have settled on Puckewitz, although other backfield men are being drilled in this department.

Despite a bandaged left hand, Puckewitz has done some accurate tossing the last two days while Wisconsin, foreseeing the inevitable Wolverine aerial attack, has worked steadily on a defense for it. Rain again drove the Badgers indoors Tuesday night interfering seriously with Coach Thibault's training program for his conference debut as Wisconsin mentor. He left Northwestern last winter, after leading them to a Big Ten championship at the close of his five-year term.

PURPLE VS. OHIO
His successor at Northwestern, Dick Hanley, former Washington state and Haskell institute coach, also has picked a tough spot for his Big Ten beginning against the title-aspiring Ohio State.

Unless he is really needed, Coach Spears may withhold his Minnesota thunderbolt. Herb Joesting, in the Indiana game Saturday.

In contrast with his annual fear of Purdue, Coach Stagg was quoted as having told his Chicago squad in skull practice that their chances of overcoming the conquerors of Harvard were very good.

Iowa and Illinois have another preliminary contest to fit them for conference battles later, although the Iowans have passed out of the championship race because of the Ohio State defeat.

CARD SPORTS

The brilliant 23 to 32 victory of the Wisconsin cross country team over Kansas University last Saturday reinforced the Cardinal's possibilities of annexing the harrier title of the Big Ten again this season. Although Frazier, a Jayhawk, finished first, Captain Zola and Peteja of the Badgers crossed the line second and third respectively, followed by other Cardinal hill and dale men. The time was 17:45.6. Coach Jones this week began training his pupils for a quadrangular meet at Chicago on Oct. 22 with Northwestern, Indiana and Chicago.

Thousands of good seats for the Michigan-Wisconsin game next Saturday and the Purdue tilt a week following are available to fans. Tickets will be on sale up to game time for each football contest. Fastboards for the Purdue engagement will be put on sale starting Oct. 17.

Michigan-Wisconsin relations, which will reach its annual climax next Saturday at Camp Randall stadium, date back about 25 years, during which time both squads have clashed twelve times. Wisconsin's last victory was realized in 1899 when the Cardinal whipped the Wolverines, 17 to 5.

Approximately 100 men students at Wisconsin participated in the thirty-first annual fall track and field meet held in the Varsity gym-annex last Saturday.

Athletics for all students at the University of Wisconsin is being executed effectively with the inauguration of the extensive program of George Little, Badger athletic chief.

The new Wisconsin Athletic Review, which made its initial appearance under a new policy last week, carried a comprehensive and accurate account of all athletic activities of the Badger institution. Two feature articles carried in the first issue were written by Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite and Director George Little.

The Badger campus was astir with enthusiasm and high spirits this week as the Michigan-Wisconsin game, Western Conference opener was drawing closer. A filled stadium is expected to see the Badgers give battle to their ancient rivals, the Wolverines.

PURPLE FULLBACK HAS 102-YARD RUN RECORD
Evanston, Ill.—Few backs will be credited with longer runs this season than the one fullback "Tiny" Lewis of Northwestern already has to his credit.

Lewis has a run of 102 yards to touchdown in the record book for 1927.

He grabbed a kickoff back of his goal post a few days ago when the Purple was trimming South Dakota and eased his way down the entire length of the field for a touchdown. It was a run of 102 yards.

CARDINALS, BAYS, BATTLE FOR FOURTH

Two Classy National Pro
Loop Elevens Slated for Game at Bay

Green Bay—One of those "natural" so far as professional games are concerned will be staged at the City stadium, Sunday afternoon, when the Chicago Cardinals tangle with the Green Bay Packers in a gridiron combat that can right fully be termed "crucial" for both teams.

It will be a battle for fourth position in the National league race. Right now the Packers are occupying this position but a win by the Cardinals would put the Windy City aggregation a step ahead of Capt. Lambeau's eleven.

BEAT POTTSVILLE, 19-7
In league games so far this season, the Cardinals bowed to the Chicago Bears, 9 to 0. Then they turned around and amazed the pro football world by dumping the Pottsville Maroons, 19 to 7, last Sunday. Chris O'Brien's hirelings marched 50 yards down the field in the last four minutes of play to administer a 7-0 defeat to the Dayton Triangles.

The Chicagoans are just beginning to hit their stride and, from all accounts, they will be at top speed, when Sunday rolls around. Guy Chamberlin's clubs have always been known to be late starters and this year's Cardinal outfit was no exception to the rule.

DID SOME HOUSECLEANING
When the 1926 season closed the Cards were not placed in the league standing to the satisfaction of Chris O'Brien and he immediately laid plans to do some house cleaning. One of the Cardinal owner's first steps was to make a deal with Guy Chamberlin to run his club.

Chamberlin has a wonderful record in football as the maker of champions. He was associated with George Halas in the old Staley club. This team won a title. Then Chamberlin produced a couple of championship outfits for the Canton Bulldogs and followed this along by winning topnotch gridiron honors for Cleveland.

MAKER OF CHAMPIONS
After leaving Cleveland, Chamberlin went to the Frankfort Yellowjackets and in two years, he turned out another championship club. The Cardinal follows figure Chamberlin is coming through with another winner this season providing that his club succeeds in putting the slugs under the Packers' in Sunday's game. The dope around the pro wheel is that no team will go through the season with a clean record and that the 1927 winner may even be charged with a pair of defeats.

There are a lot of new faces in the Cardinal line up this fall as Chamberlin went out and rounded up a lot of likely looking collegians. The Cards' backfield which started against Dayton was composed of Jones at quarter, Risvold and Strader at halves and Bucklin at full. Every one of these gridgers are fresh from the "collegiate" ranks. McDonnell, Ike Mahoney and Rhoddy Lamb, veterans of 1926, got into the game late.

There are a sprinkling of old-timers on the Cardinals line. Duke Slater, giant negro tackle, has played against the Packers before. He was with Rock Island a few years back. Springfield is an experienced pro, having played with Philadelphia while Brennan, guard, and Weller, end, are right at home in postgraduate ball.

ELLIS GREAT TACKLE
Ellis, who plays the opposite tackle to Slater, is said by experts to be the

PIRATES MAY TRADE CUYLER TO CINCIES

Rumor Has It That "Kiki"
May Go for Hughey Critz,
Wally Pipp

Cincinnati—I won't be long now before the fall gossip about big league trades gets into full swing. That is an annual custom as soon as the world series is over.

This fall the player most talked about as trading material is "Kiki" Cuyler, the star in-bad outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The drastic action of Manager Bush and Owner Dreyfuss in keeping Cuyler on the bench, while waging one of the toughest battles in the history of the National League to win a pennant and all during the past world series, makes it seem a certainty that Cuyler is doomed to go elsewhere for 1928.

Unless both Manager Bush and Player Cuyler are willing to let by-gones be by-gones, unless Cuyler is willing to admit publicly that he was in error, thereby offering a reason for his greatest man playing pro football. Last year, he was the unanimous selection for the All-American team. Waldron, guard, and Vesser, end, are collegiate recruits who have won regular jobs.

Chamberlin goes into the game often at an end position and reports from Chicago have it, that he is playing brilliant ball this season. McNery, the Cards' utility man, is a handy boy on the gridiron. Records show that during his five years with the team he has filled in at every position except quarterback.

continued benching, it hardly seems possible that he will fit into the Pirate line-up for next year.

Cuyler is a great ball player. With him in the outfield between the Wanderers boys, Pittsburgh would have one of the greatest trio of gardeners in baseball, perhaps the best since the days of Lewis, Speaker and Hooper of the Boston Red Sox. In addition, so valuable a fielder as Barnhart would be on the bench ready for any emergency.

"Kiki" is excellent trading material. Any club in the National League would be delighted to make a deal for him. However, Pittsburgh will insist on something worthwhile in return and only a few clubs can offer such a package.

It is known that a deal with the Cincinnati Reds is on the fire and Cuyler will go to that club if Manager Bush can get the players he desires in the deal.

Realizing that the first and second base side of his infield is rather weak, Bush is angling with several clubs that have such trading material. Hughey Critz is the player most desired by Bush. It is understood Pittsburgh has offered Cuyler to the Cincinnati club for First Baseman Walter Pipp and Second Baseman Hughey Critz.

Last spring, Critz held out for more money. The trouble wasn't adjusted until after the opening of the season and, when Critz reported, he was in far from playing condition. He early suffered a "charley horse," as well as other injuries that kept him out of the line-up.

His absence from the game was one of the reasons for the terrible start made by the Reds. It would be conservative to say that Critz's failure to play his game cost the Reds at least $100,000 at the gate because of the club's failure to be in the first division. It's possible that Critz's status

WILCY MOORE WELL REPAID FOR EFFORT

So Pleasing Is Hurler's Work
That He Gets $7,000
Raise

This has been a big year for Pitcher Wilcy Moore, of the New York Yankees, who just a year ago at this time was finishing a very successful year in the South Atlantic League. He had won 30 games and lost only four.

Despite his remarkable record none of the major league scouts fancied he had a chance to make the grade in the American or National Leagues.

It seemed as if his great year in the minors would be wasted until the New York Yankees decided that a pitcher with so remarkable a record must have something. He was bought for a very nominal sum.

"He had a great year in the minors but not a single scout turned in a favorable report," was the comment of Manager Miller Huggins during spring training.

Yet Wilcy Moore, 30 years old, won 19 games in the American League last season and saved probably 15 others with the club owner and manager may be very much like that of Cuyler.

Regardless, there is a deal on the fire for an exchange of Cuyler for Critz and Pipp, which would give Pittsburgh desired strength at two weak spots. Its consummation is entirely up to the Cincinnati club.

Incidentally, another deal hinted between the two clubs is an exchange of Catcher Earl Smith of the Pirates for "Bubbles" Hargraves of the Reds.

to make the most remarkable record ever made by a first year man.

Now for the very pleasing part of the big season that Moore has enjoyed as a member of the Yankees' pitching staff.

In the Sally League, Moore paid, so I understand, $2,400 a year, a rather healthy figure for that league. His rights in baseball called for the Yanks to pay him $3,000. Moore was delighted to sign such a contract.

There is no denying that Moore played a major role in the winning of the pennant by the Yankees. The greatest weapon a manager can have is a relief pitcher capable of meeting most any emergency.

With Moore in constant reserve, a glutton for punishment, Miller Huggins was able to shift his pitchers that it was the exception for one of the veteran pitchers to act in a relief role. That helped.

Now for the part that has made a big hit with Moore.

Unless I have been badly misinformed, Owner Jake Ruppert tore up Moore's $3,000 contract and made him out a new one calling for $10,000. He well deserved it.

If the story is true, and I have every reason to believe it is, Moore stands out as one of the few pitchers to receive such a substantial offer, with the race practically over.

Figuring that the Yankees' share of the world series will probably be around $6,000, Moore will receive something like $16,000 for one year's work, about seven times what he earned in the minors.

"I never thought it was possible for one man to make so much money in so short a time," is the way Emmett Ormsby says Moore told him about it.

No wonder the Yankees have a most kindly feeling for Wilcy Moore. The same kindly feeling exists from club house boy to president.

DELCO PRODUCTS

These oils, Delco and Delcopenn, are 100% pure paraffin base oils that have been protecting motors in this vicinity for a number of years.

Delco and Delcopenn oils wear well as they have 12% more oil body at motor heat than ordinary asphalt base oils, and 15% less loss through vaporization and burning. Consequently they provide GOOD DURABLE LUBRICATION. This is what the customer wants and pays for.

In winter most cars require oil of different characteristics than that which is correct in summer. Don't guess about this vital matter, drive in and have our dealer fill the crank case with the particular grade of Delco and Delcopenn that will best fit your motor for winter driving.

Benzol Delco Gasoline's Successor

Is the ideal motor fuel, having combined good qualities of high and low test gasoline. It is the original and the first anti-knock fuel on the market today.

Automobile experts and motor fuel engineers predict that the motor-fuel of tomorrow will have these characteristics:

- 1—Quick starting in all weather. Less crank-case dilution.
- 2—Vaporization at lower temperatures than present day gasoline.
- 3—Suitable volatility that will conform as closely as possible to an ideal standard.
- 4—Freedom from knock.
- 5—The formation of less carbon.
- 6—The development of greater power.
- 7—Higher rate of utilization—greater economy; in other words, more mileage per gallon.
- 8—Less heating of motor in hot weather, when the going is hard.

AVIATOR HOPES TO BREAK SPEED MARK

Lieut. Alford Williams Hopeful of Traveling Faster Than 281 Miles an Hour

Port Washington, N. Y. — (AP)—A broad shouldered young giant is toiling daily here on a little blue and gold biplane in which he hopes soon to fly faster than human being has ever traveled.

Lieut. Alford J. Williams, navy speed ace, swallowed a bitter cup of disappointment a few weeks ago because the plane, especially built for the Schneider Cup races, was not ready to compete.

But when British airmen shattered all previous records at Venice Williams was undismayed. He promptly announced that he would go after both land and sea plane records.

Williams has been assaulting speed records steadily in recent years. In 1925 he drove a racing plane high into the air and then dived downward at full speed. When he "fattened out" his course he was unofficially timed at 302 miles an hour. Speed diving is now prevented by racing rules.

His little racer is something new in aviation, Williams believes. It is less than 23 feet long at the body, and the span of its upper wing is less than 30 feet. But it contains a monster 24 cylinder Packard engine, developing 1,250 horsepower—said to be the most powerful motor ever installed in an airplane.

To save weight the engine is started by a device separate from the plane. Its roar can be heard for miles. In its flights from the water the little plane almost leaps into the air.

The water cooling system is provided by radiators in the wings of the plane, consisting of 12,000 feet of brass tubing, through which water is pumped at a rate of 120 gallons a minute. The oil is cooled in a wing surface radiator on the lower right wing.

Replacement of the pontoons with landing wheels has occupied the attention of Williams and his colleagues recently. If tests are satisfactory he will attempt to break the land plane record of 278 miles an hour in formal tests timed by officials of the National Aeronautic Association.

After attainment of maximum land speed Lieutenant Williams plans to install another engine of similar type, but so improved as to develop 1,400 horsepower. Then the pontoons will be restored and after suitable tests Williams will try for the world's record of 281.488 miles per hour, set by the British at Venice in the 1927 Schneider Cup races.

UNVEIL TABLETS TO FEDERATION FOUNDER

Delegates to Farm Congress Will Attend Ceremony at Madison

Madison—(AP)—A tablet to the memory of Henry Krumrey, founder of the Wisconsin Cheese Producers federation, will be unveiled at the college of agriculture here Thursday. Another tablet to his memory will be unveiled at Plymouth on Sunday.

The ceremonies in Madison come on the first day of the two-day farm congress, and arrangements have been made so that those attending the congress may get to the exercises at the college.

The Madison program includes speeches by W. H. Hutter, vice-president of the federation; H. L. Russell, dean of the college of agriculture; Theodore Macklin of the college faculty, and John T. Blaine, United States senator from Wisconsin.

J. H. A. Lacher, Waukesha, a brother-in-law of Krumrey, will give a biography of him. The unveiling of the tablet will be done by Henry Krumrey of Beloit, a grandson.

The ceremony at Plymouth will be conducted Sunday afternoon. The federation warehouse will be thrown open all day for the use of those attending.

Gus Brickbauer will preside at the exercises. Those on the program include C. E. Broughton, Sheboygan newspaperman, a close friend of Mr. Krumrey; Prof. H. C. Taylor, of the Northwestern university school of commerce, who will speak on Mr. Krumrey's contributions to the cooperative movement.

Edward Voigt, former congressman, will deliver the principal address. As at Madison, Mr. Lacher, will give a biography of Mr. Krumrey, and Henry Krumrey Seaman and Paul Albrecht, grandchildren of Krumrey, will unveil the tablet.

Gene's Ambition Soars High; Heavyweight Champion Plans Search For More Dignified And Lasting Title

BY ALLENE SUMNER
Cleveland, O.—Some day, James Joseph Tunney, champion heavyweight fighter of the world, wants to doff his white cotton ring shorts for the satin knee breeches worn at the court of St. James.

This does not mean that the heavyweight champion of the world has a court. Rather, he hopes to do a little presenting himself in the role of U. S. ambassador to the court of Britain.

Gene Tunney, the Adams, Beau Brummel, Lord Chesterfield, Euripides, Shakespeare and Whom Have You of the prize ring, would exchange his right to the title for which most of the masculine world would sell its soul, for a "more dignified and lasting title" such as ambassador, statesman, senator, famed archaeologist, or a name meaning financial wizardry.

Unbruised and unscathed from his fight with Jack Dempsey, Tunney, resting in a millionaire's palatial estate in this city, left his book long enough to tell what it really means to him to be world's heavyweight champion; what he plans with his title, and what he hopes for.

HORATIO ALGER HERO
Listening to Gene Tunney, one wonders if he can be real or if here is an Horatio Alger hero come to life—an ambitious boy "willing to do anything for the sake of my future."

"Boxing can never be my life work or profession," says Tunney. "It's just a good job—a business into which circumstances drew me. I am not a prize fighter from real inclination; things just broke that way."

"I was offered a million-dollar job—a job for which I never really planned or prepared. But if I can hold the job, wouldn't I be foolish to turn down an opportunity to put one on one's feet and leave one in a position to put through almost any life program?"

There, in a nutshell, you have it! Gene Tunney will "earn his pile" and then begin to do the job he really wants to do.

Gene Tunney is no born fighter like Jake Dempsey, a fighter to whom the smell of resin is meat and drink—a fighter who would rather fight than be present.

In fact, one gathers that both "boxing" and his title are distasteful, if anything, to Gene Tunney, wizard of boxers; that he is merely counting his time until his "pile" is ready and he can be the power he wants to be.

Gene kicked his bedroom-slippers feet a bit impatiently when pressed for an exact description of his future life.

HAS POISE AND TACT
"Something, gentlemen, scholarly, and powerful," he said. "Some sphere

LOOKING AT THE PAST

Gene Tunney, in bathrobe and slippers, lolls at ease on the lawn of the palatial estate of Leonard Hanna, at Cleveland, and considers the future.

where money counts for real constructive work.

Gene's sidekick and friend empowered with all rights of attorney, Eddie Eagan of Yale, Oxford, and other scholastic corridors, elaborated where Gene's modesty forbade.

"I think Gene would make either a great ambassador or financial power," he said. "He has poise, tact, and the assurance that his title naturally gives him."

Gene has his next five years as carefully scheduled and planned as a great actress.

"I will box until I am 35," he says. "I will leave before I am defeated. No boxer will have beaten me in that time. By that time I will be ready for a job of my own selection—not one which is the outcome of circumstances."

One gathers that whatever that job is, Gene Tunney, world heavyweight champion, expects to be just as important out of the ring as in.

A senatorship, a governorship, an ambassadorship, even the presidency fall within the scope of his ambitions.

GETTING FRIENDS LINED UP
"A man is successful in proportion to the number of people who know him and are for him," Eddie Eagan explains. "Gene says that no man is so well known or has such loyal followers as a boxing champion. When he's ready for his big job outside the ring he'll have his crowd all lined up and plugging for him."

Tunney's stay at the Leonard Hanna estate near Cleveland is but a sample of the invitations before him.

"He doesn't exactly want to be a society lion," explained the boy friend, Eddie Eagan, "but he does like to be in the best homes and with the best people."

Gene Tunney at rest is as unlike a Goliath of the ring as one could well imagine. He sat in a wicker semichaise longue, a loose dressing gown ending in checked, felt-trimmed bedroom slippers. He might have been posing for a "when the man of the house rests" ad.

"But I don't really need rest at all," he protests.

DROWNING MAN TOWED TO SAFETY WITH ROPE
Fong du Lac—John Nelson of Milwaukee is alive today by virtue of an unorthodox rescue method.

You won't find any first aid manual recommending that the victim be towed from the water with a rope, but that is how five men got John out of Long lake.

Nelson, who weighs 300 pounds or so, rowed to the middle of the lake and dropped a heavy anchor on a fifty foot line. The water was three feet deeper than that and the combined weights of John and the anchor stood the skiff on end.

They couldn't get the prospective drowning victim in either of two rescue boats, so they tied a rope around his middle and towed him to shore.

NEED FINGER PRINT BUREAU IN STATE

Kenosha Chief Points to Necessity for Identification System Here

Kenosha—Agitation to secure concerted action before the next legislature to establish in Wisconsin a state bureau of identification like 46 other states in the Union now have will be launched at the twelfth annual convention of the Wisconsin Chiefs of Police association at Racine Oct. 12 and 13.

Chief of Police Thad W. Logan of Kenosha, a member of the executive committee, will point to the recent achievement when a file of finger prints in the California state bureau showed that a man arrested in Kenosha under the name of Joseph Schultz charged with burglary, was really Joseph Butell, who was wanted at Wau-pun prison for escaping in 1921.

If Wisconsin had had a state bureau at the time the identification would have been completed on the day of arrest instead of eight days later, the chief said.

The program includes as speakers Secretary of State Theodore Dammann, several mayors of Wisconsin cities and Oscar Lee, warden of the state penitentiary. There will be a round table discussion of means used in various cities to curb crime.

The committees for the convention are named as follows:

The PENNY PRINCESS

Copyright 1927 by NEA Service Inc. by Anne Austin

BEGIN HERE TODAY

VERA CAMERON allows JERRY MACKLYN, her boss, advertising manager for Peach Bloom Cosmetics Co., to transform her from a plain business girl into a beauty. Jerry proposes to use her photographs in advertising booklets. He falls in love with Vera, and his love persists even after he learns she consents to the transformation only because the man she falls in love with, SCHUYLER SMYTHE, ignores her.

Vera spends her vacation at Lake Minnetonka, because Smythe is there. He and other guests mistake her for VIVIAN CRANDALL, ex-princess, who after a Paris divorce is in hiding. Learning of their supposed daughter's whereabouts, the Crandalls send detectives to the Minnetonka. They arrive late one night. Vera and Smythe flee in a stolen car. Smythe confesses his love and insists they be married at once. Vera tells him the truth about herself. Smythe is furious, proving himself a fortune-hunter.

Two masked men kidnap Vera from the car and take her by airplane to a shack in the hills where the prince awaits them. The kidnapers double-cross the prince and announce they will hold them for a ransom from the Crandalls. Vera convinces the prince, furious at the discovery she is not his wife, they must "play the part."

In answer to a mysterious phone call, Jerry Macklyn finds Vivian Crandall hiding in the Bronx. She offers to help him find Vera and together they start out for the shack which Vivian remembers the prince was interested in. Meantime at the shack one of the kidnapers, returning from New York by airplane, is killed and the other flees, leaving Vera and Ivan alone. Vera flees. As she leaves the cabin she is stopped by Vivian and Jerry. The girls become friends. Vivian begs Vera to be the princess. Vivian a little longer, explaining she is in love with a poor man who will not marry her unless she demonstrates she can live on a modest income. She wants Vera to impersonate her so she can finish her three months' probation unmolested by her parents.

CHAPTER XLVIII
When Jerry Macklyn threw open the door the prince was discovered in a fighting pose, with a stool raised aloft to strike the invader, whoever it might be.

"Don't be ridiculous, Ivan," Vivian Crandall called over Jerry's shoulder. "Drop that stool and then sit on it. But I don't believe I asked you to drop your jaw also. You might look a little glad to see me, since you made such elaborate plans to insure my visit."

Jerry chuckled and stood aside to let her pass. He stood with Vee-Vee just inside the door, while Vivian Crandall took her former husband firmly in hand. "What? No welcome, Ivan?" Her voice was cool, contemptuous, amused. The prince had dropped the stool, obediently, and stood staring at her, his pale blue eyes almost popping from his head, his cheeks dyed crimson.

"Well, what are you going to do? How did you get here?" he asked at last.

"My dear Ivan, I am a very charitable and long-suffering man, as you have good cause to know," Vivian Crandall answered him coolly. "I have come to get you out of a most embarrassing situation—for my own sake, not for yours. I dislike intensely being laughed at, and if the world knew that my divorced husband had succeeded in abducting me and holding me prisoner for two days in a shockingly primitive cabin like this, I am afraid I should never be able to live it down. I don't seem to remember you as enjoying jokes at your expense, either," she mused, her eyes narrowing as she studied him.

"What the devil does this mean, Vivian?" Ivan demanded.

"Ivan!" Vivian chided him mockingly. Her tone changed abruptly, became hard and brisk. "How did you get here? My car?"

"Yes," he answered surlily. "Unless those damned kidnapers stole it, it's parked behind the cabin."

"Will you see if the car is still there, Mr. Macklyn?" Vivian asked.

While Jerry was away on his errand, Vee-Vee slipped into the back room and began to pack her suitcase, after a word as to her intentions to Vivian Crandall. She heard Jerry return, could distinguish his words as he told the ex-princess that the car dall replied. "Now, Ivan, you are at had not been taken. "That is very good," Vivian Crandall returned to New York as fast as that car can take you. I think, however, that you will find the climate does not agree with you, and that you will be very glad to take the next boat to Paris."

"I haven't any money," the prince blurted out.

"You never had any money," Vivian reminded him mockingly. "I should dislike to think of you as hungry, since you do so enjoy eating, so if you will be a very discreet little prince I feel sure that you will find a respectable sum of money waiting for you at my attorney's in the Minnetonka. Will twenty-five thousand dollars tide you over until you can land another heiress?"

The prince gasped like a drowning man who caught a lifeboat thrown to him, then cupidly gazed in his popping blue eyes. "That's a ridiculous sum for the story that I can tell the New York press," he began.

"Story?" Vivian's voice and face expressed intense surprise. "My dear Ivan, did I wrong you when I said you disliked to be laughed at? Of course if you insist on making yourself ridiculous, on telling how you kidnapped your divorced wife and tried to unsuccessfully to compromise her into a re-marriage with you, you can do so, of course. The yellow journals might conceivably pay you five-thousand dollars for the thriller."

The prince wilted under her scorn and her logic, but there was a stubborn gleam in his eyes as he demanded: "What kind of cock and bull story are you going to tell? You haven't been here with me. Where have you been?"

"Ivan, when I divorced you in Paris a few weeks ago, you lost all your rights to hold me accountable for any of my thoughts or actions," Vivian Crandall reminded him serenely. "You also lost all claim upon my fortune. But—I don't believe I shall miss twenty thousand dollars—"

"You said 25 thousand," "Did I?" she smiled. "I am afraid I was too generous. On second—or rather third—thought—you will find 15 thousand dollars waiting for you at my attorney's in Paris, on condition that you leave immediately and say nothing to anyone about what has happened in this cabin. And every time you make an objection the sum will be five thousand less."

"All right," the prince agreed so hastily that Jerry Macklyn burst into a roar of uncontrollable mirth.

"Now, don't let us keep you, Ivan," Vivian said with sweet courtesy. "I am sure you are eager to be on your way—to Paris. My friends and I are going to have a very good lunch out of your cupboard. I shall cook it myself."

Within 15 minutes the roar of an automobile motor told the three in the cabin that the prince was indeed eager to be on his way—to Paris. "All I regret is," Jerry Macklyn murmured, "that I didn't have a chance to spank him."

When the early luncheon was finished, the two girls, who looked so strangely alike and yet were so different, cleaned house quickly but scrupulously, and Jerry made a thorough job of extinguishing the fire in the fireplace.

"Well leave these canned goods in the cupboard," Vivian decided. "Some hungry wayfarer may find them, and have his faith in the Biblical ravens restored. And now we'd better hurry. There's no telling what Paul will do if he gets home from work this afternoon and finds me gone. He has been urging me to tell my parents where I am, to relieve them of suspense. Of course he knows that it wasn't I who was kidnapped from the Minnetonka, and the quixotic darling may think it's up to him to go to the police or to my parents with the story."

Vee-Vee paused in her work of folding up sheets and turned a look of such utter fear and consternation upon Vivian that the heiress took pity upon her and reassured her: "I don't have the least idea, really, that he'll meddle. Vee-Vee dear. But I'm naturally anxious to get back to him as quickly as possible. He always has dinner with me in my apartment, and if he comes home and finds me away he will be worried to say the least."

It was only 11 o'clock when they closed the door of the cabin and struck off across the meadow to where Jerry's car awaited them in the little-used road.

"I'd like to spend the rest of the day picnicking," Vivian sighed regretfully when she had taken her place in the front seat of the car. "You sit here, too, Vee-Vee. If the police are really conducting the eagle-eyed search for me that the papers are giving them credit, they'll never dream of looking for me in an innocent little party. But to make sure, I'll pin on my braids and get out my spectacles. Mr. Macklyn brought a pair for you, too, as well as a matching veil. I think we shall be safe enough."

When the two girls had put on their "disguises" they looked at each other and laughed like a couple of children playing make-believe. To complete the illusion, and because each of them had cause to be happy and immensely relieved of worry, the three sang popular songs as the car speeded down the highway toward New York. They made no effort to escape attention, invited it rather. Vivian seemed to take a childish, irresponsible delight in waving at passing motorists and at the occasional motorcycle policeman whom they passed. Jerry, for his part, took care not to exceed the speed limit, so that his own greeting of traffic policemen was joyously unheeded.

Most of their route to New York lay along the Hudson, on a road that was sometimes congested with traffic. But not once were they accosted. "I was not quite five o'clock when Jerry swung in the Grand Concourse in the Bronx, and headed the car toward the street where Vivian Crandall, heiress to 40 million dollars, was living in a four-room furnished flat under the name Virginia Craig."

"Paul rarely gets home before five, sometimes not until six," Vivian told himself. "Let me out at the corner of 150th street, Jerry—for she was calling him by his first name at his request—"and I'll buy provisions for dinner. Paul doesn't drop in until he thinks the meal is about ready. I've told him it makes me nervous to have him hanging around while I cook. Oh, by the way, can you lend me a dollar, Jerry? Tomorrow's payday, and I've spent almost my last cent. Heavens! I hope I haven't lost my job by being absent today! I telephoned my boss I was sick," she explained to Vee-Vee.

"I'll buy the grub," Jerry grinned. "I'm hungry as a wolf and I don't want any penny-pinching housewife trying to put me off with one little lamb chop and a few leaves of lettuce. You two girls, scoot in now and trust Jerry to provide the makings for a real meal. I know all the shops in this neighborhood, and I bet some of them will remember me, too. They've got good cause to," he chuckled reminiscently.

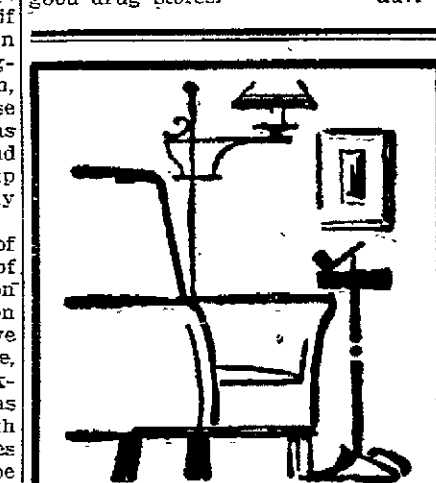

"I hope," said Vivian Crandall, as the two girls mounted the stairs to Vivian's apartment, "that Jerry's real meal will prove a pacifying one, for everything now depends on Paul. And

EMPLOYER ORDERED TO PAY BACK WAGES

Circuit Court Jury Affirms Lower Court Decision in New Trial

A jury in circuit court Tuesday morning affirmed municipal court decision awarding Henry Haury $499 as back wages from George Streeter, proprietor of a bakery shop at Kaukauna. Judge Theodore Berg had awarded Haury $490 on May 5, 1927, and Streeter appealed to circuit court. Haury alleged that he had contracted to work for $35 per week but that he received no wages from Sept. 23, 1925, to Jan. 4, 1926.

Streeter, in his answer to the complaint, said that Haury had been negligent and careless in performing his work and had caused considerable damage. He said they had discussed the matter and agreed that

Paul, her voice was tender but a little rueful, "is a very masterful man. He may refuse to let me go on with my plan—and I have good cause to know that when Paul says 'no,' he means 'no.'"

(To Be Continued)
Will Paul retract from his stubborn stand? Will Vivian Crandall find the happiness she has missed for so long?

EMPLOY AIRPLANES TO CARRY MAIL TO CUBA

Word has been received by Fred Felix Wetzel, acting postmaster from the postal department at Washington, D. C., that hereafter first class mail for points in Cuba and routed by way of Key West, Fla., will be carried to the island by airplanes. This is to expedite the mail service between the states and Habana, Cuba, in particular.

SHIRLEY MINISTER TO TALK IN SHIOCTON CHURCH

The Rev. G. Hoenecke of Shirley will give an address in German at the special service at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at First Lutheran church at Shiocton in connection with the annual mission festival. An English service will be conducted at 7:30 Sunday evening by the Rev. M. Hensel of Weyauwega.

Haury was to recompense Streeter for his losses.

Members of the jury were Mrs. Wilbur Diestler, Hortonville; Edward Hoffman, New London; Milo Jack, Appleton; Gustaf Julius, Hortonville; William A. MacFarlane, Appleton; Harry Mansfield, Shiocton; Clifford A. Merens, Kaukauna; Edward J. Murphy, Appleton; Raymond Nagreen, Shiocton; George Nixon, Appleton; William J. Roemer, Appleton; Bertha Spoehr, Shiocton.

WORKMEN NOW GRADING APPROACHES TO STREET

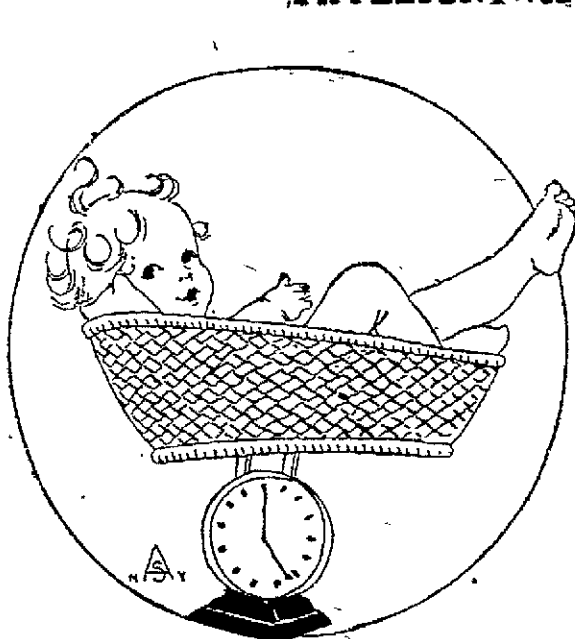

Street department laborers are grading the approaches to Jackson-st, according to Robert Mackworth, street commissioner. Laying of bricks on top of the concrete base has been completed and the street probably will be opened to traffic as soon as the approaches have been graded.

WARN POLICE TO WATCH FOR JEWEL THIEVES

A reward of $500 is offered for the capture of John P. Carroll, alias Al Kerby alias R. H. Hiatt alias J. E. Russell, alias Ben J. Smith, and his wife who uses any of the aliases, according to information received at the Appleton police department Monday. The two are wanted for stealing $15,000 worth of jewels from the residence of P. J. Taylor, Corna, Miss., on the night of Sept. 24. Mr. Carroll is 33 years old, although he looks younger. He has blond hair and blue eyes, a fair complexion and medium build. He is five feet six and one half inches tall and weighs 136 pounds. He is an auto mechanic and has a bust of a woman tattooed on his left forearm. His wife is about 40 years old, five feet six and one half inches tall, and weighs 163 pounds. She has light brown hair, blue eyes and a florid complexion.

JACK LOCKWILL, THE LION TAMER

Whirling, Jack ran into the tent. The tired and sleepy performers had not yet begun to dress for the parade, and the place was almost deserted. Two of them were there, however. Camille, the equestrienne, was struggling in the grasp of Red Saunders. The man's huge left paw clutched the woman's right hand. She held a small pistol, from which the shot had come.

"You cat!" snarled the ruffian, seizing the young woman by the throat. "Pull a gun on me, will ya? Well, you won't again!" A moment later, Lockwill got into it.

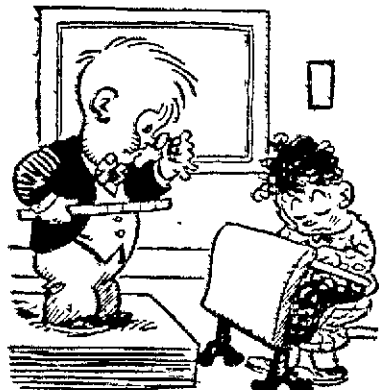

Coming with a rush, the boy struck Saunders just below the ear, putting all the smashing force he could into the blow. The big man went down as if he had been shot.

The report of the pistol brought others hurrying into the dressing tent. Sevier Costello was one of them. "What's happened here?" he demanded. Red Saunders sat up and stared incredulously at Lockwill. "They both attacked me—the woman and that brat of a boy," he declared. "The woman tried to shoot me, and the boy hit me with a club or something, and knocked me down." (To Be Continued)

New London—The annual election of officers by Norris Spencer Post No. 253 of the American Legion was held at legion hall Tuesday evening. Dr. Melvin A. Borchardt was elected commander to succeed Edgar G. Brown, who has served as head of that organization for the past year. Leon A. Meverdon, local manager of the Wisconsin Telephone Co., was elected first vice commander; Clarence A. Walker, second vice commander; Raymond V. Frahl, adjutant; Leonard Borchardt, and Frank Meyers, sergeant-at-arms; Gus Fuest, chaplain; D. B. Egan, service officer and Dr. F. S. Loss, historian.

The legion will hold its usual series of Saturday night dances, the first one being scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 23. A basketball team also will be sponsored by this organization and basketball fans in this city and the surrounding territory will have the opportunity of witnessing a program of interesting games which are now being planned. Among the players who have already signified their intention to report are Much of New London, Wahl of Weyauwega, and Schwanke of Tigerton, all star players on last year's city team.

NEW LONDON
SOCIETY

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—St. Gertrude's court of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters met at Parish hall Tuesday evening. A social hour was held after the business session, five hundred furnishing the entertainment. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Leonard Peltz, and Mrs. Frank Allen. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Henry Knapstein, Jr., Mrs. John Crook and Mrs. Joseph Schoenhart.

The women of the third group of the Catholic Women's club will hold the first of a series of card parties at Parish hall Wednesday evening. Five hundred and schaffkopf will be played, as well as other card games, if preferred.

Mrs. Robert Dauterman was hostess to the members of the Autumn Leaf club at her home Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Walter Raschke was awarded the prize for high score in five hundred, Mrs. John Dickenson, second, and Mrs. Arthur Swenson, consolation. Mrs. J. M. Monsted will entertain the club at the next meeting.

Mrs. August Braatz will be hostess to the Tuesday five hundred club at her home, Oct. 13.

The first of a series of card parties, which will be given by the various members of the Emanuel Lutheran Ladies Aid society, was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Lasech on E. Beacon-ave. Eight tables of five hundred were in play, prizes being won by Mrs. Martin Abraham, Mrs. Bernard Hendricks and Mrs. William Marks. Mrs. Lasech was assisted by Mrs. Elder Schoenrock and Mrs. Fred Radtke.

Plans are under way for a series of card parties which will be sponsored by the women of the Maple Grove district. Dances were held at Maple Grove pavilion during the summer and early fall, the last one taking place last Friday evening and the card parties are planned to replace them.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ruckdaschel entertained about 75 friends at a dancing party at Maple Grove pavilion during the weekend in honor of the birthday anniversary of their daughter, Miss Vivian. An eight piece orchestra composed of talent from that vicinity furnished the music for the occasion.

At the Parish hall on Wednesday evening the Women's Catholic club will give a public card party. Schaffkopf, seat and five hundred will be played.

ASK CHILDREN TO REPORT

FIRE TRAPS IN COMMUNITY

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Questions circulated among all children of the city schools beyond the fourth grade are being filled out and turned in to the city fire department. These answer questions relative to the home of the boy or girl and his neighbor's home and lay a foundation for a thorough understanding of the city's fire traps and objectionable features. Hints published along with the folder give valuable "don'ts" which are in line with the week's emphasis on fire prevention.

The fire truck decorated with streamers bearing fire prevention slogans catch lines makes one or two runs every day. Usually the runs are made at recess time so that the majority of the children may get a deeper understanding of what is meant.

WATCH FOR DRIVER WHO

STRUCK APPLETON WOMAN

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Word was telephoned here on Tuesday afternoon by the police force of Appleton asking that watch be kept for a young man wearing a brown hat, wearing glasses and having an Irish accent who had struck down a woman upon the streets in Appleton, and had tried to stow. Watch was kept by Motorcycle Officer Howard Baker, but the driver in question failed to appear.

It Took His Stockings
And Shoes But Kite Flies

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—That necessity is the mother of invention was proven by John "Toughie" Garot. "Toughie" tied himself to the ball park on Tuesday night to amuse himself with a new kite which he had invented. A very nice sort of a kite it was, gaily colored and with a long tail, but something was sadly wrong with the construction and the kite, so John decided, was "too dumb to fly."

At just about this stage of the game the young inventor thought of a simple way of adding ballast. Off came the kite's stockings which were tied to the kite's tail and it was given another tryout. The kite rose, gave a few bucks and drifted back into the field. Then came the final test of the true inventor. Off came his shoes again and these were tied to the stockings. Another trial and off sailed the kite. For awhile it was a gamble as to know whether the kite would clear the telephone wires, but since it did there was no worry about going home barefooted. A long sail in the autumn sky and John hauled in the string and his footgear called it a day and went home.

BIG KRAUT SHIPMENT
MADE FROM SHIOCTON1,000 Barrels of Sauerkraut
Already Shipped by Pickle
Factory

Shiocton—The Arnold Brothers Pickle and Preserve company has received about 1,500 tons of cabbage thus far this season and has filled 50 large tanks. So far about 1,000 barrels of kraut have been shipped. One car load containing 70,000 pounds went to Los Angeles.

The early cabbage season is expected to last through the month of October and will be closely followed by the late cabbage season. The company has received the machinery for bottling kraut juice and it is being placed in the factory. The bottling is expected to begin next week.

F. L. Wellman of the United States department of agriculture, bureau of plant industry, was at Shiocton the past week looking over the cabbage industry in this vicinity.

Mr. Wellman at present is working to control chomel, the most dangerous pest of cabbage and cauliflower.

A surprise was given Miss Florence Beyer at her home Friday evening by a number of her friends in honor of her fourteenth birthday. The evening was spent in playing games and toasting marshmallows. Guests present were Mary Thompson, Margie Booth, Arla Valentine, Evelyn McCully, Marjory Genske, Pearl and Idella Vanderhooft, Kathryn Thorpe, Phil and Herbert Palmer, Charles De Long, Walter Sawyer, Charles Middleton, Russell Brantz and Harley Schwandt.

The Minneola Rebekah lodge No. 165 of Shiocton will celebrate its thirtieth anniversary on Tuesday evening Oct. 18. A six-thirty o'clock dinner will be served followed by a program given by members of the lodge.

A horse sale was held in the village of Shiocton Monday afternoon. Twenty head of high grade Belgian and Percheron horses owned by O. J. De Vos, were sold by J. B. McLaughlin.

The horses were shipped here from farms of southern Illinois and were from four to eight years of age, weighing from 1,400 to 1,800 pounds.

New steps were placed at the front entrance of the Congregational church the past week.

The Rev. and Mrs. John Jordan of Rochester, Wis., who are visiting friends in this vicinity, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Laird.

The Jordan family were formerly residents of Shiocton, Rev. Jordan being pastor of the Congregational church here for many years. Last Sunday he again occupied the pulpit, the Communion service being observed.

Manawa—Burglars broke into five stores here during Monday night, but the net result of their efforts was one pie. The stores broken into were the Seybold Drug store, Weisbrod's meat market, Charnley's bakery, Jodel grocery and Nye Dry Goods Co. store. In all of the places the burglars broke the locks in doors to enter.

In Nye's store the men entered through the cellar door and broke the lock from the basement to the first floor. Here and at Weisbrod's safes were broken open but no money was found in either.

Sheriff H. C. Hansen and Under-sheriff Miller of Waupaca went over the scene Tuesday with bloodhounds but were unable to find a clue. They thought the work was that of local talent.

MISSIONARY TO INDIA SPEAKS AT MISSION MEETING

200 Delegates and Visitors Attending Missionary Conference Here

Miss Selma Anderson, a missionary in Rajahmundry, South India, gave the principal address Tuesday evening at the opening session of the nineteenth annual convention of the Women's Missionary society of the Wisconsin conference of the English Evangelical Lutheran Synod of the Northwest which will continue through Wednesday and Thursday at Trinity English Lutheran church. About 200 delegates and visitors are attending the meeting.

Miss Anderson in her address on "The Hindu Woman and the Christian Woman," she told the work the missionaries are doing among the Christian people in the Bible Training school and the Theological seminary, the sanatorium for tubercular patients and in the industrial field in Rajahmundry. Miss Anderson, who is on a year's furlough, will leave Wednesday evening for Chicago where she will spend a few days before continuing on her way to Omaha, Neb.

Mrs. Wanda Dushy sang a soprano solo, "Hail, Hail, Upon the Mountain," by Scott. The Trinity choir sang, "The Lord is Strength Victorious," by Kevin. A meeting of the executive committee was held Tuesday afternoon. Emlin Owen, organist at the local church, presented an organ recital before the official opening of the convention Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Frank C. Hemming, of Milwaukee, vice president of the society, presided at the business meeting. In the absence of the president, Mrs. William C. Stump, who has moved outside of the synod, Mrs. Hemming read the president's message and reports were given by Mrs. A. M. Malmberg, Mrs. A. W. Bogk of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Fred Gerhart.

Election of officers was to be the principal business Wednesday afternoon. A demonstration, "Look Upon the Harvest" was given by the Light Brigade of Trinity English Lutheran church.

ASK $500 TO PAY FOR DAMAGES TO AUTO

Negligence Is Charged in Suit Opening in Circuit Court Here

A suit for $500 damages by George Barnard of Redwood against Henry Draves opened at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in circuit court before Judge Edgar V. Werner. Barnard alleges that on July 8, his Chevrolet sedan was being driven by William Barnard, west on a county trunk highway between Hortonville and Medina and that Draves, driving on the left side of the road in a negligent manner struck the Barnard machine causing damages, totaling $500.

Draves, in his answer, denies all the allegations of the complaint and asks $250 damages to be paid to him. He charges Barnard with driving in a reckless and negligent manner.

The jury was chosen Wednesday morning. The members are Mrs. Wilbur Dieffler, and Lester P. Fulcer, Hortonville; William C. Hebe, Ellettsburg; George L. Hildebrand, Ellettsburg; William A. MacFarlane, and William J. Roemer, Appleton; Clifford A. Merens, Kaukauna; William Metz, Shiocton; Andrew Ruckdashel, Sugar Bush; Albert Sigl, Seymour.

CITY NURSE RETURNS FROM STATE MEETING

Miss Florence Whipple, city nurse, returned Wednesday from Milwaukee where she attended the convention of the Wisconsin Nurses association. Miss Mary Orison, city school nurse, and Miss Mary Orison, city school nurse, and Miss Jane Barclay, assistant city school nurse, also attended the meeting and are expected to return to Appleton Thursday.

Miss Orison is president of the Sixth district Nurses' association, which won the gavel awarded the district having the largest increase in membership in the past year. Miss Orison and Miss Kline were members of the state executive committee.

K-C OFFICIALS THANK MOTORPOLICE FOR HELP

A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner, Wednesday morning received a letter from officials of the Kimberly-Clark Paper Co. thanking him and praising the work of the Outagamie county motor-police during the Kimberly disaster. The letter stated that but for the work of the motor-police in directing the heavy traffic, the village of Kimberly would have been submerged in a jam that would have impeded rescue work.

$5,000 BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT IS SETTLED FOR $300

A breach of promise suit for $5,000 instituted by Elsie Linzmeyer, Appleton, against Martin Vandenberg of Kaukauna was settled out of court Tuesday afternoon for $300. The trial had been started in circuit court, a jury drawn and some testimony had been taken when the litigants agreed to settle. Miss Linzmeyer charged in her complaint that Vandenberg promised to marry her on July 3, 1926, that she was ready to marry him now, but her repeated requests that he do so were met with refusals.

ELDER AIRPLANE IS FLYING OVER OCEAN

able of a speed of 130 miles an hour. He expected to average 110 miles an hour.

Emergency equipment included a rubber life suit for each of the pilots, with a gear for covering the head, and a life preserver for each pilot. The plane has a small radio set with a radius of 75 miles.

The two fliers went to the field Tuesday dressed as though they had planned an ordinary visit to the Hangar. Miss Elder wore a plaid sweater, golf stockings to match, golf shoes, light woolen knickerbockers and a light blue bandana around her head. Haldean was dressed in a blue business suit, tan shoes and a grey cap. Before boarding the plane both donned fur-lined army-flying suits.

MRS GRAYSON PREPARED

Old Orchard, Me.—(AP)—Mrs. Edna Grayson, 41, of Appleton, Wis., was prepared to die when she was struck by a car Tuesday afternoon. She was driving her car on the highway when it was struck by a car driven by a man who was driving in a negligent manner. Mrs. Grayson was killed instantly.

Mrs. Grayson said that the start was made as late Wednesday evening as the tide would permit, so that they might have daylight for a landing in Copenhagen. She made a rough estimate of 33 hours for the journey.

Mrs. Grayson was undissuaded by the plea of Mrs. Ralph O. Brewster, wife of the governor of Maine, who christened the plane "The Dawn." Mrs. Brewster said she would defer the flight until she could see the doctor. Mrs. Dawn will awake American women to greater efforts and bind closer the women of two continents.

SUES FOR FULL VALUE OF 1926 CROP OF PEAS

Menasha.—The case of Roman Theimer of Brotherton, Calumet co., vs. Devoe Seed company of Menasha went to trial Tuesday in circuit court at Oshkosh. The plaintiff brought the action to recover the full value of his 1926 crop of peas. He claims he should have received $503.31, but was paid only $163.30. The defendant in reply alleges that the peas were unmerchantable and damaged and unfit for seed, and that he was paid the full value of the crop for feeding purposes.

LYMAN ATTENDING STATE CONVENTION OF CHIEFS

Menasha.—Chief of Police James Lyman is attending the annual convention of chiefs of police at Racine. He left Tuesday afternoon in company with Chiefs George T. Prim of Appleton, Richard McCarthy of Kaukauna and Chief Lueck of New London. The convention opened Wednesday morning and will be in session until Thursday night.

MOTORIST KNOCKS DOWN 2 WOMEN AND THEN HUSTLES AWAY

Police Seek Reckless Motorist Who Struck Two Women Crossing Street

Two women were injured, one quite severely, when they were struck by a "hit and run" driver at the corner of Appleton-st and W. College-ave about 3:30 Tuesday afternoon. The driver of the machine failed to stop and witnesses did not learn his license number. A description of the car and driver was immediately given to nearby cities and police are watching for the man. The car was an Essex coach and it was driven by a young man wearing glasses and a brown hat.

The injured women are: Mrs. Joseph Marnard, 411 Seventh-st, confined to St. Elizabeth's hospital with severe bruises and contusions on the back of her neck and right shoulder and serious bruises and cuts on her left leg.

Mrs. Cora Williams, 411 W. Seventh-st, released from St. Elizabeth's hospital Tuesday night. She suffered severe bruises on her right leg and knee and skin abrasions. Miss Hattie Williams, 411 W. Seventh-st, who was walking with the other two women escaped injury.

The three women were crossing on the west crosswalk on Appleton-st when the car approached from the east and struck two of them, knocking them down. A large number of spectators gathered, and in the excitement the driver drove away. The women were taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital.

Herbert Perrine, 219 W. Hancock-st, was bruised and cut, when he collided with a machine driven by F. F. Marton, 211 S. Oak-st, on N. Richmond-st at 5:50 Tuesday afternoon. Perrine, on a bicycle, was riding south on N. Richmond-st and he collided with Marton's machine, which was going north on the same street. Perrine was knocked to the pavement and the front wheel of his bicycle was smashed.

BOTH DRIVERS NEGLIGENCE SO JUDGE DISMISSES SUIT

A suit for 140 damages by George Inde, Appleton, against E. J. Roe, Minneapolis, Minn., was dismissed by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Tuesday afternoon, when both parties were found guilty of contributory negligence. Inde was ordered to pay the costs of the action.

Inde charged that on Sept. 19, 1927, his daughter Myrtle was driving west on College-ave and that Roe's machine crashed into the rear of her machine, causing damage estimated at $140. Roe claimed Miss Inde had stopped to pick up a friend and that she did not signal her intention to stop. Roe asked for damages of $61.80.

MUMM GETS JUDGMENT FOR UNPAID TAX ON LOT

Edward F. Mumm was granted a judgment of approximately $89.29 from Benjamin Burmeister by Municipal Judge Theodore Berg Wednesday morning. Mumm alleged that on Nov. 3, 1926, he purchased a lot from Burmeister at the corner of N. Union and E. Brewster-sts. The incumbrance covenant of the warranty deed declared that no property was clear but Mr. Mumm found, he alleged, that water main and sewer tax assessments totaling $87.29 had not been paid. Mr. Mumm paid these taxes and then sued to recover. Judge Berg held that Burmeister had reached the incumbrance covenant and ordered him to reimburse Mumm for the money spent for taxes and also to pay the court costs. The case was decided by the judge on a statement of facts and was not tried in court.

GRAND CHUTE DOG OWNERS MUST PAY TAX OR LOSE DOG

A deputy sheriff appointed by Sheriff Otto Zuehlke, will start Thursday collecting dog licenses in the town of Grand Chute. Every home in that town will be visited and if the occupant has a dog without a license either the tax must be paid at once or the deputy will kill the animal. This action is being taken at the request of the town board of Grand Chute.

About a month ago the town board voted to allow 30 more days to dog owners to purchase licenses. The board decided it would request the sheriff to have a deputy visit each home, after the 30 days had expired, and either collect the license fee or kill the animal. The 30 days have expired according to Sheriff Zuehlke, and the town board has requested that the deputy start his work.

Under the law, according to Sheriff Zuehlke, if the tax is not paid and the occupants of the home refuse to assist the deputy catch the animal, it can be killed on the premises.

MAYOR DENIES CITY WILL FINISH YEAR WITH BIG DEFICIT

Payment of Traction and Paving Taxes and Other Revenue Will Balance Books

Contrary to public belief, the city of Appleton will not finish the fiscal year on Dec. 31 with a deficit but will have a balance on hand, according to Mayor A. C. Rule.

At the present time the city owes $161,000 to the banks but income during the remainder of the year will care for that deficit and leave a balance, the mayor says.

Five year bonds will be issued in about a month, covering the property owners' share of paving done during the summer. Mayor Rule said Wednesday. The income from the bonds will be about $52,000. The city already has paid its share of the cost of paving and property owners who did not pay their special paving assessments will pay one fifth of the bond total each year. The $52,000 which is to be realized from the sale of the bonds will partially reimburse the city for the cost of the paving, as the entire cost was paid by the city out of the general fund.

Another source of income is the tax paid by the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company. The corporation pays its tax direct to the state tax commission, which refunds part of the tax to the city. Mayor Rule said that the city will get about $50,000 from the tax commission as the city's share of the Wisconsin-Michigan company taxes. The money is paid out by the tax commission about Dec. 1, $100,000 AVAILABLE.

The greatest sum will be the $100,000 collected from the taxpayers of the city as their share of the county tax. This sum can be used by the city after Nov. 23, if the county does not appeal a recent decision which declared part of the 1927 county levy illegal. In the meantime, it is in a bank, held there by an injunction of the court which will not be dissolved until 60 days after Sept. 23, the day the judgment was given by the court.

"When we made up the tax levy last year," Mayor Rule said, "we believed that the $100,000 levy would be declared illegal, so we held the levy down to 3 per cent. instead of 3 1/2 per cent. We believed that we could use the $100,000 as we needed it, and in case the levy was declared legal, the court blocked our plans and as a result we have been forced to borrow money."

"However, we will be able to use this money after Nov. 23 to pay part of what we owe the bank and with other revenue the city treasury should show a balance at the end of the year."

FIND SERUM TO CURE INFANT PARALYSIS

Chemists' Experiments Show Great Reduction in Number of Fatalities

Indianapolis, Ind.—Discovery of what is said to be the first effective commercial specific for treatment of infantile paralysis was announced here by Eli Lilly & Co., pharmaceutical chemists.

After ten years' research an anti-streptococci serum has been developed from the horse as in the case of diphtheria and scarlet fever-serums. The serum is being produced here in cooperation with Dr. Edward C. Rosenow, chief of experimental bacteriology of the Mayo Foundation, and already 10,000 units have been sent to polio-myelitis epidemic centers from coast to coast and even into Canada and Cuba.

First reports show it especially effective in Ohio and California.

TREATS IN RABBITS

Dr. Rosenow, beginning in 1916, first isolated the micro-organism causing poliomyelitis. It was isolated from the infection atri and brain cord lesions of all epidemic cases treated by him since that time. Dr. Rosenow produced a similar disease in rabbits, and then with serum from horses contacted the disease.

In making the serum a horse is immunized slowly against the disease for six months by periodic injections of the organism. Then blood is taken from the horse and for two months put through a laboratory process that separates and concentrates the desired anti-streptococci and makes them ready for packing in ampoules for use.

1925 Dr. Rosenow reduced the 23.5 mortality rate in cases of infantile paralysis to 14.4 per cent.

EARLY USE RECOMMENDED

A California test this year reported 8 per cent mortality for cases treated and 70 per cent for untreated cases.

Clinical observations show that best results are obtained if the serum is used as soon as the case has been diagnosed, recovery without paralysis being reasonably certain in such cases. The serum has been found effective in treating paralysis already begun, and in reducing handicaps of bodies already paralyzed.

BRETTSCHEIDER AT UNDERTAKERS' MEETING

No Appleton funeral directors attended the first annual convention of the National Funeral Bureau of America, Inc., which was held in Chicago last week. The organization recently was formed and Appleton morticians have not become affiliated with it.

The forty-sixth annual convention of the National Funeral Director's association is being held at Cincinnati, O., this week. David Brettschneider is the only Appleton mortician at the convention. He formerly was an officer of the organization. Mrs. Brettschneider accompanied him.

REPORT 2 CASES OF DIPHTHERIA IN CITY

Classmates of Sick Child Are Examined to Prevent Epidemic

Two cases of diphtheria in the city have been reported to Theodore Sanders, deputy city health officer. These cases are the first diphtheria cases reported in the city since last January, Mr. Sanders said.

One of the patients is an adult and the other is a school child, living in widely separated parts of the city. Cultures of the throats of all classmates have been taken to determine if any of the other children were infected.

"This is an ordinary occurrence at this time of the year," Mr. Sanders said. "The congregating of children in the schools together with the disagreeable weather of the past several weeks makes the children susceptible to illness."

No cases of influenza have been reported to Mr. Sanders, although he is aware that there is widespread illness from colds. Four cases of whooping cough and one of chickenpox, have been reported to Mr. Sanders and the homes of the children now are in quarantine.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Sunz visited at Kiel over the weekend.

Mrs. Schlegel of the Little Paris millinery is spending a few days in Chicago on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson and family of Weyauvega were guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lutz Holman.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Roesch of Dayton, Ohio, are in Appleton to attend the funeral of Mrs. Carl B. Roesch.

Dr. W. H. Finney and William Gould of Clintonville were visitors in Appleton Tuesday.

Riding Exhibit

The annual exhibition of Appleton Riding club will be held at 7:30 Wednesday evening at the arena on S. Oneida-st. Sixty riders will take part in the exhibition which will include a polo game, a drill by men and women drivers and jumping. Riders from Appleton, Kaukauna, Neenah and Menasha will take part in the exhibition.

In rabbits, and then with serum from horses contacted the disease.

In making the serum a horse is immunized slowly against the disease for six months by periodic injections of the organism. Then blood is taken from the horse and for two months put through a laboratory process that separates and concentrates the desired anti-streptococci and makes them ready for packing in ampoules for use.

1925 Dr. Rosenow reduced the 23.5 mortality rate in cases of infantile paralysis to 14.4 per cent.
